Food Price Cuts Said Not Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says supermarkets should be lowering their prices, but administration economic advisers say not to expect it.

"Farmers have taken a major adjustment in price in the last several weeks. Prices of major farm commodities have dropped 20 to 40 per cent since January and February," Butz said in a statement Friday.

"It is high time that these lower farm prices show up more fully in lower retail store prices. While food prices at stores have leveled off some, margins are still higher than normal," he said.

However, President Nixon's chief economic adviser indicated that food prices will continue to rise the remainder of the year, although at a slower rate.

Dr. Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said, "Retail food-price increases, which accounted for about one-third of the 12.2 per cent rise in the Consumer Price Index in the first quarter, should slow substantially in the April-June period."

And Dr. Gary L. Seevers, a member of the council, said, "We don't expect food prices to fall" this year. Any reductions in the price of individual food items should be felt now, if they come at all, he added.

Stein said the slowdown in food price increases should offset an expected rise in prices of goods other than fuel and food and result in "a rate of inflation substantially below recent rates."

Even so, said Stein, "We're not painting a very rosy picture."

He said the administration now feels inflation for the year will be about 7 per cent, an increase of 1 per cent over earlier estimates.

Prices of gasoline and electricity will continue climbing but not as quickly as they did in the first quarter, Stein told the Senate-House Economic subcommittee on consumer economics.

Meanwhile, another of the President's economic advisers argued against any major cuts in next year's budget.

The speech in Cleveland by Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, revealed a sharp dispute in the administration.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon has urged a deep budget cut as a means of fighting inflation.

But Ash said current estimates of the budget deficit expected for next year are within the range of a proper non-inflationary balance.

Heavy Rain Drenches Mid-U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Heavy rains drenched the middle Mississippi Valley today, but accompanying hail and high winds diminished.

The thunderstorm system extended from the northern and central Plains into the Mississippi Valley through Friday and tornado warnings were common throughout the midcontinent.

But before dawn the heaviest rainfall was concentrated in the middle valley region and the threat of tornadoes had lessened.

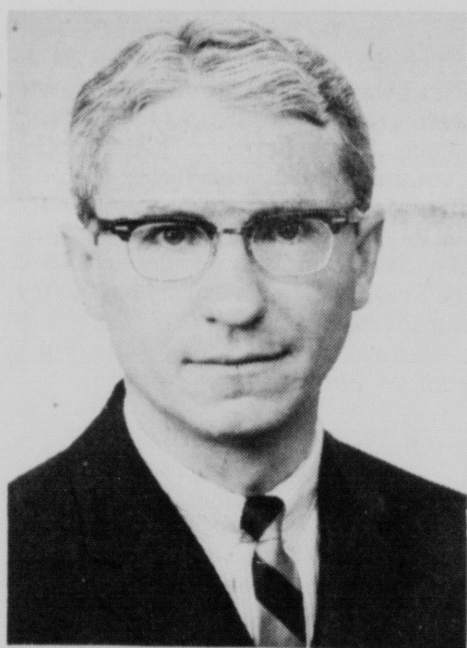

Tornadoes were sighted Friday afternoon from Texas to North Dakota and later in Louisiana, Missouri and Kansas, where twisters at Prairie View, Long Island and Phillipsburg tore the roof off a motel, uprooted trees and cut up utility lines. No injuries were reported.

Thunderstorms washed the central Gulf Coast and showers were scattered along the Middle Atlantic coast and into Maine. Other showers swept over the Washington coast as a new storm system moved in from the Pacific.

Lake Charles, La., was soaked with 2.5 inches of rain around midnight and nearly an inch dampened LaCrosse, Wis., and Offutt Air Force Base near Omaha, Neb.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 20 at Bradford, Pa., to 81 at Carlsbad, N.M.; Needles, Calif., and Las Vegas, Nev.

Dewey was selected for the honor in balloting by students enrolled in the law school. Dewey also received the outstanding teaching citation in 1969 and 1972 and is the first professor to have been honored three times with the award.

A native of Circleville, Dewey received his undergraduate degree from Capital University and was graduate cum laude from the Ohio State University College of Law. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Dewey, 220 S. Scioto St.

He was admitted to the Ohio Bar in 1946 and later served as an attorney in state government and was a deputy tax commissioner for the State of Ohio.

Dewey was engaged in private practice for 14 years. He joined Capital University as a full-time faculty member in 1968 and became a full professor of law in 1971.

Dewey and his wife Ruth reside at 2915 Clermont Road in Columbus.

Kissinger Meets Israeli Leaders

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met with Israeli leaders today, working out details of a troop disengagement plan.

FBI Studies Zebra Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Federal authorities may join the investigation of San Francisco's Zebra killings under a conspiracy law that has been widely used in civil rights cases, well-placed informants say.

The sources said Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and top aides will decide within a week whether to bring in the FBI's investigative resources.

Federal interest, the sources said, focuses in part on the possible nationwide implications of the slayings, which Mayor Joseph L. Alioto contends were carried out by a black racist cult, called the "Death Angels," which is dedicated to killing whites.

Thirteen persons have been killed and seven others injured in the random street attacks here since last October. All were white. Alioto claims there have been about 80 such attacks in California since September, 1970 and that the operation is run by a leader in a midwestern city.

The sources, who are familiar with Justice Department interest in the case, said federal authorities have nothing at the present time to substantiate Alioto's claim that the cult exists outside California.

Consideration of a possible FBI entry into the Zebra case stemmed from Alioto's request for assistance when he met with Saxbe in Washington a week ago, the informants said.

Since then, Saxbe has called for a report on the Zebra case with a view toward stepping in under the federal law which makes it a crime to conspire to deprive persons of their civil rights to life and liberty.

for presentation to Syrian leaders in Damascus on Sunday.

American and Israeli officials appeared apprehensive but hopeful that progress was being made and that there remained a chance for an agreement to stop two months of fighting between Syrian and Israeli troops in the Golan Heights.

Kissinger returned to Jerusalem on Friday after quick trips to Saudi Arabia and Egypt and met again with Israeli Premier Golda Meir.

Later Kissinger said: "I continue to believe that some progress is being made." He said both sides were making "a detailed examination" of Israeli and Syrian truce proposals, "but we can't talk about an agreement."

There were signs, however, indicating that positions might have bent enough to permit some sort of accord before Kissinger returns to Washington, probably in one week.

United States officials said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who talked with Kissinger for three hours in Cairo Friday, had been in touch with the Syrian government.

The Israeli newspaper Maariv reported that President Nixon had sent Mrs. Meir three messages during Kissinger's trip urging Israeli cooperation and flexibility in the negotiations.

Maariv said the last message also implied a threat — possibly involving withholding American arms — if Jerusalem refuses to yield enough for a disengagement pact.

Mrs. Meir's office declined comment, but other sources said the report appeared correct.

So far Israel has offered the Syrians half the abandoned Golan Heights capital of Quneitra and proposed that parts of the strategic Mt. Hermon be placed under the control of the United Nations. The Israelis also are willing to have Syrian peasants return to some occupied villages.

White House Hints Resignation By Nixon Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Battling for his political life, President Nixon was bound for a campus appearance in Oklahoma tonight as a top aide suggested resignation might eventually be considered if it would help the country.

As a mounting chorus of congressional Republicans called on Nixon to consider stepping aside because of his Watergate problems, the President's wife, Pat, relayed word through an assistant Friday that "she feels it's too bad the Republican leadership is coming out and saying these things because it's harmful to the country."

She also said she feels her husband "will not resign, shouldn't resign and has never considered resigning."

White House staff chief Alexander

M. Haig Jr. said in an interview he sees nothing now to prompt a Nixon resignation. But he acknowledged the President might consider that unprecedented step "if he thought that served the best interests of the American people."

Continuing a travel-studded personal campaign to enlist public support, Nixon was to fly to Oklahoma to address evening commencement exercises at Oklahoma State University's football stadium in Stillwater.

A recent student poll indicated about half the campus opposed the presidential visit. University authorities said they would bar hostile placards from the stadium.

Nixon's hope of gaining the initiative in his fight against possible impeachment received another serious blow Friday when conservative Republican Sen. Milton Young of North Dakota, long a Nixon stalwart, urged that he turn over the presidency to Vice President Gerald R. Ford until the impeachment question is resolved.

Under the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, Young said, Nixon later could reclaim the presidency should the House vote against impeachment or the Senate acquit him after a formal trial.

Ford met with Nixon for an hour Friday morning and, at a later news conference at Buffalo, N.Y., said "I certainly could infer from everything he told me" that resignation is not being considered.

Impeachment Panel Seeks Tape

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee is expected to subpoena another White House tape next week, despite President Nixon's announced intention to turn over no more Watergate material.

Committee sources said Friday that a subpoena probably will be issued for the tape of a pre-Watergate White House meeting in an effort to see if Nixon had advance knowledge of the plan to bug Democratic headquarters.

Chief committee counsel John Doar said he would request a subpoena at the committee's next business session.

The April 4, 1972 meeting involved Nixon; his former Chief of Staff, H.R. Haldeman; and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. It took place four days after Nixon's re-election campaign aides had approved a plan for electronic surveillance of the Democrats, according to testimony by Jeb Stuart Magruder, an official of the re-election committee.

Nixon has denied knowing in advance of the Watergate break-in.

Nixon lawyer James D. St. Clair said this week that no more Watergate material would be delivered.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said a day would be set aside next week for the committee to act on such business as the issuance of the subpoena. Checks with committee members indicate there would be little opposition to issuing it.

The committee resumes closed hearings on Tuesday in its inquiry into possible grounds for impeachment.

If a majority of the House votes to impeach Nixon, a two-thirds majority would then be needed in the Senate to convict.

In other Watergate developments: —Watergate burglar G. Gordon Liddy was found guilty of contempt of Congress for refusing to be sworn in or to testify before a House committee last year. U.S. District Judge John H. Pratt suspended a six-month sentence, noting other convictions against Liddy.

—Another convicted Watergate conspirator, E. Howard Hunt, denied that he tried to blackmail President Nixon. Hunt said his requests for $120,000 from the administration were not on the condition that he maintain silence about the break-in.

—Former White House appointments secretary Dwight L. Chapin pleaded with U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell to give him probation rather than jail. He was convicted of lying to the FBI in its investigation of dirty tricks against Democrats during the 1972 presidential primaries.

New Arms Race Sparked By Naval Buildup

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States will spark off a strategic naval arms race with the Soviet Union in the Indian Ocean if it beefs up its base on the island of Diego Garcia, a new United Nations report says.

The report prepared for Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim tells of Pentagon plans to lengthen the airfield runway on the British-owned island to handle B52 strategic bombers and to deepen the lagoon to accommodate a dozen ships.

That, it says, would give the United States "a major strategic naval base from which it could deploy...strategic nuclear submarines in the Indian Ocean" within ballistic missile range of the Soviet Union.

If that happens, the report says, the Soviet Union will "almost certainly search for a similar base in the area and a new strategic naval arms race will have begun."

Milk Fund Evidence Mounts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within hours of talking with President Nixon about milk price supports in 1971, some dairy cooperative leaders tried to raise a quick $300,000 for Nixon's campaign, according to secret Senate testimony.

D. Paul Adagia, former executive director of Dairymen, Inc., said officials of two sister dairy cooperatives asked him for the money in a pre-dawn airport meeting March 24, 1971.

Adagia said he refused the request on grounds his cooperative didn't have the money, but his group did give $25,000 to Nixon later the same day. The next day, March 25, the administration raised milk price supports by 27 cents per hundredweight, adding hundreds of millions of dollars to the income of dairy farmers.

Informed sources said that the Senate Watergate committee's chief milk-fund investigator, assistant chief counsel David Dorsen, told members of the committee late this week that Adagia's testimony tends to support allegations that milk prices were raised in return for a promise of $2 million in campaign donations from dairymen.

Adagia, in a telephone interview, confirmed the account of his testimony and added some details.

On March 23 he and a number of other dairy cooperative officials met at the White House with President Nixon. Milk prices were among the subjects discussed.

After the dairymen left, President Nixon met with his top aides and ordered milk prices up, the White House has said. It said Nixon knew that some of the men present had promised to give $2 million for his re-election, but denied that this influenced the President's decision to raise prices.

Adagia arrived at the airport in his hometown, Louisville, Ky., about 4 a.m. the next morning. There to meet him were the top leaders of two other giant dairy co-ops — Associated Milk Producers, Inc., and Mid-America Dairymen, Inc. The three dairy co-ops are the nation's largest.

Adagia said the others asked him to give $200,000 to $300,000 to the Nixon campaign. He said he refused.

Dairymen Inc., did give $25,000 to Nixon later that day. That evening, officials of the three big co-ops were back in Washington to attend a Republican fundraising dinner. Nixon's decision to raise prices had not yet been publicly announced.

After the dinner, around midnight of March 24, general manager Harold Nelson of Associated Milk Producers Inc., was asked to reaffirm his $2 million promise to the White House, according to testimony which former Nixon fundraiser Herbert W. Kalmbach reportedly has given to Senate investigators.

Sources say Kalmbach swears he heard the late Murray M. Chotiner, a former White House aide, tell Nelson that presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman wanted confirmation of the $2 million pledge in light of the upcoming price increase. Nelson is said to have agreed. The Agriculture Department announced the increase the next day.

Colombian Jet Grabbed

CALI, Colombia (AP) — A group of young hijackers who commandeered a Colombian plane held a gun to the pilot's head today and demanded $300,000 ransom for the release of 86 passengers and six crew members.

They said the money should be delivered by a man in a bathing suit to ensure he was unarmed.

But the Colombian president's office said it would not negotiate under pressure, refused to meet the ransom demand and told the hijackers they had two choices: surrender or go on to Cuba.

"These men have a gun to my head," the pilot, Rodrigo Arboleda, said from the plane on the runway at the Cali airport. "They are becoming very nervous."

The captain told the control tower that the hijackers "do not want to go to Cuba and sometimes grow impatient and order me to fly without a fixed destination, but I won't risk taking off at random."

17-Year Cicada Due In County This Month

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Cicadas will surface about the middle to the last part of May after 17 years of living in underground tunnels. This year the insect will appear in southwestern Ohio, according to Extension Entomologist Richard L. Miller, of the Ohio State University, and Roger Williams, of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

Counties involved are Warren, Clinton, Clermont, Highland, Brown, Adams, Lawrence and portions of Ross, Scioto, Pike, Pickaway, Butler, Hamilton, Montgomery, Green and Fayette, they say. Only a small area of South Central Pickaway County is expected to be bothered; however, they may spread a little more.

Cicadas injure young fruit trees, grape vines, and outer branches of some forest, shade and older fruit trees. Damage is caused by the egg-laying slits or punctures of the female. A single female may make 5 to 20 egg-laying slits and deposits as many as 400 to 600 eggs. Eggs hatch in about six weeks. Young nymphs drop to the ground, burrow into the soil and attach to suitable roots. They remain here, sucking sap from the roots of trees and shrubs for the next 17 years.

Twigs in which many eggs slits have been made are often broken or partially broken from the branches. On young fruit trees, extensive injury can set back the normal growth. Wounds also provide places for diseases to enter and feeding locations for insects such as scales and woolly apple aphid. Over 250 species of trees and shrubs may be attacked by the egg-laying female. However, females seem to prefer oak, maple, apple, dogwood and nut trees, Miller and Williams say.

Commercial fruit growers, nurserymen and homeowners in the counties where cicadas are expected this year are warned to protect their plants during the insect's appearance. Cheesecloth, mosquito netting, tobacco shade cloth or nylon netting over ornamentals, backyard fruits, young commercial fruit trees and grape vines may be the best method of control.

For large plantings or mature trees, use Sevin, 50 per cent wettable powder at the rate of two pounds per 100 gallons of water dilute or 6.4 pounds per acre low volume spray.

Homeowners may use Sevin to protect their trees and shrubs, too. Use two tablespoons of the 50 per cent wettable powder per gallon of water.

Apply Sevin when adults first begin to emerge from their nymphal skins or as soon as they begin singing. Although this treatment will reduce the number of adults in the immediate area, swarms of adults from other areas can rapidly reinfest your plants. Repeat Applications of Sevin at 5 to 7 day intervals.

NOTE: Apple growers should keep in mind that Sevin, applied within 30 days after full bloom, will cause fruit thinning.

News For Homemakers

On chicken — Have you ever noticed that the meat close to the chicken bone darkens after cooking? Chickens are now marketed young, seven to nine weeks. At this time the bones have not been completely filled with calcium. When the chicken is frozen slowly, as in home freezing, the bone marrow expands and pigment seeps through the bone to its surface and darkens meat around the bone. This does not affect the taste and indicates a young, tender bird.

You can't tell a chicken by its color! Feeds higher in carotene, such as yellow corn, result in yellower chicken skins. This does not mean a healthier chicken, but some people just like a yellower color. Incidentally, the chicken skin is very nutritious. It has as much protein as the same amount of beef sirloin and more protein than "all meat" frankfurters. Though high in protein, chicken skin is lower in calories than either sirloin or frankfurters.

As a purchasing guide, one pound of chicken breast yields four servings, one pound of legs three servings, and a whole chicken one and one-third servings per pound.

As you get into the gardens and think about canning days ahead, the U.S.D.A. warns not to try canning in the oven. It is dangerous, jars may explode. The temperature of the food in jars during processing does not get high enough to insure destruction of spoilage bacteria in vegetables. Also, the U.S.D.A. does not recommend canning in the microwave ovens.

In March, the cost of food for a family with four elementary school children was listed as $43.70 (low cost plan), $55.10 (moderate plan), and $66.90 (liberal plan) for families eating all meals at home.

New research shows that vitamin C in fruits helps the body release and digest the iron in egg yolks. We always knew it was good to drink orange juice with eggs; now we have a reason "why."

1974 May Be Year To Double Crop

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Since there's an extra large acreage planted to wheat, this may be the year to double crop part of it. Following wheat with soybeans this summer could increase your net farm income by $30 to $60 per acre, according to Richard D. Duvick and John E. Moore, Extension Farm Management Economists at The Ohio State University.

Whether double cropping soybeans will work on your farm depends on your livestock program (legumes and grasses already seeded) and adequate soil moisture. You'll also need drying facilities to get some of the wheat out early enough to plant soybeans. And, of course, the labor and necessary machinery must be available.

While a crop of soybeans following wheat harvest is more of a gamble than traditional cropping practices, several steps can be taken to minimize this risk. And the current price outlook on soybeans greatly improves your changes for profit.

Ohio State University agronomists have been conducting research on double-cropping wheat and soybeans for several years. They point out that five management factors are critical, if the venture is to be a success: planting date, moisture conservation, row width, weed control, and variety. These elements of favorable weather and good management are necessary to achieve a yield level that will allow recovery of the cash crop expenses.

Early planting has been shown to improve yields by 4 to 6 bushels per acre in research studies. To achieve this earlier planting date, wheat should be harvested at 25 per cent moisture and dried. The drying cost will generally be offset by the added yield. In these budgets the assumed drying cost of $4.50 for a 45-bushel yield of wheat is more than offset by the extra four bushels of soybeans yielded.

Higher yields are generally achieved if planting is done with a no-till planter, since it helps to facilitate early planting and conserves valuable soil moisture. The effect of no-till planting on yield is greater in years when the total rainfall in July and August is less than 7 to 8 inches.

In summary, double-cropping of winter wheat and soybeans appears to have potential for profit. But the chances for a poor crop or crop failure are greater with double-cropping of soybeans. To minimize the chances of loss, the following questions should be considered:

1. Do I have the management ability to do a timely and thorough job of planting?

2. Do I have the equipment to harvest and dry the wheat at 25 per cent moisture?

3. Do I have access to a no-till planter to plant the soybeans?

4. Does the ground have an ample level of soil moisture at planting time? A good rule of thumb is, "If June is dry, don't try" to double-crop small grains.

It is not necessary to be able to answer yes to each of these questions before double-cropping soybeans. But, the more of the above questions you can answer yes, the greater are your chances to increase the total profit for your farm.

Further information on double-cropping may be found in the Ohio Agronomy Guide, Cooperative Extension Service Bulletin 472, available at the County Extension Office, 137 W. Franklin Street, Circleville.

Outdoor Living Guide Available

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

A home's outdoor living area carefully planned, can provide the scene for many enjoyable hours. All of the outdoor facilities, and their uses, should be considered in relation to each other before any construction begins, according to Extension Agricultural Engineers at The Ohio State University.

There are many outdoor living areas that may be included in a plan, such as:

- Play areas — type and size of play equipment and its location.
- Game areas that require a specified space; also each game area location.
- Rest areas that will be available to play participants.
- Entertaining space designed for adults.
- Paths and traffic routes between play and entertaining areas and the house or parking areas.
- Storage areas that can protect and keep tools, toys, and other items and equipment out of sight when not in use.
- Work and garden space — clothes lines, compost tank, flowers and gardens.

Before planning or constructing any of these outdoor living areas for your home, the engineers suggest getting a copy of "Outdoor Living - Planning and Construction Guide," available at your local Extension Office. Planning information in the book can be used to design and locate your facilities to take advantage of the terrain, the climate and your personal preferences. The included construction details and explanations can then be used as guidelines or exact dimensions for many of the items included in your plan.

"Outdoor Living - Planning and Construction Guide" is available from local Extension Offices for $1.

Ohio Power Co. Fights Ruling

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Frank Bien, executive vice president of the Ohio Power Co., said his firm plans to fight the state Environmental Protection Agency's July 1975 deadline for meeting emission control.

Bien, speaking at a dinner Thursday night, said Ohio Power will take the issue to the U.S. Supreme Court if it becomes necessary to forestall the deadline.

The EPA has directed all electric utility companies in Ohio to control emissions from smokestacks by July 1975.

Triple Murder Being Probed

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Investigators say a mother and two of her daughters were bludgeoned to death some six hours before an explosion and fire that struck their home here.

Killed were Patricia Ann Hawley, 31, and daughters Linda, 4, and Jennifer, 17 months. Essex County Medical Examiner Edward Murray said autopsies indicated all three died from deep skull fractures before the explosion.

Robert Hawley, 33, returned to his home Wednesday and shortly afterwards rushed out, calling neighbors for help and carrying his 5-year-old daughter Pamela.

The two-family house exploded just after he dashed back into the building, eyewitnesses said. Pamela was in critical condition with multiple skull fractures. Her father was not seriously injured.

The landlord and occupant of the first floor apartment, Sidney Selip, 59, was in critical condition with severe burns received in the fire that followed the explosion.

Bloomfield Police Detective Daniel Chiarello said Thursday that officials have a suspect in the killings, but there have been no arrests.

Essex County Prosecutor Joseph P. Lordi labeled the events a triple homicide and an attempted homicide.

Lordi said a steel chisel about 15 inches long was found on a gas dryer in the first floor laundry room and is believed to be the death weapon. Mrs. Hawley was found next to the dryer and her hand clutched a clump of hair, as if she struggled with her attacker, he said.

1974 May Be Year To Double Crop

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Since there's an extra large acreage planted to wheat, this may be the year to double crop part of it. Following wheat with soybeans this summer could increase your net farm income by $30 to $60 per acre, according to Richard D. Duvick and John E. Moore, Extension Farm Management Economists at The Ohio State University.

Whether double cropping soybeans will work on your farm depends on your livestock program (legumes and grasses already seeded) and adequate soil moisture. You'll also need drying facilities to get some of the wheat out early enough to plant soybeans. And, of course, the labor and necessary machinery must be available.

While a crop of soybeans following wheat harvest is more of a gamble than traditional cropping practices, several steps can be taken to minimize this risk. And the current price outlook on soybeans greatly improves your chances for profit.

Ohio State University agronomists have been conducting research on double-cropping wheat and soybeans for several years. They point out that five management factors are critical, if the venture is to be a success: planting date, moisture conservation, row width, weed control, and variety. These elements of favorable weather and good management are necessary to achieve a yield level that will allow recovery of the cash crop expenses.

Early planting has been shown to improve yields by 4 to 6 bushels per acre in research studies. To achieve this earlier planting date, wheat should be harvested at 25 per cent moisture and dried. The drying cost will generally be offset by the added yield. In these budgets the assumed drying cost of $4.50 for a 45-bushel yield of wheat is more than offset by the extra four bushels of soybeans yielded.

Higher yields are generally achieved if planting is done with a no-till planter, since it helps to facilitate early planting and conserves valuable soil moisture. The effect of no-till planting on yield is greater in years when the total rainfall in July and August is less than 7 to 8 inches.

In summary, double-cropping of winter wheat and soybeans appears to have potential for profit. But the chances for a poor crop or crop failure are greater with double-cropping of soybeans. To minimize the chances of loss, the following questions should be considered:

1. Do I have the management ability to do a timely and thorough job of planting?
2. Do I have the equipment to harvest and dry the wheat at 25 per cent moisture?
3. Do I have access to a no-till planter to plant the soybeans?
4. Does the ground have an ample level of soil moisture at planting time? A good rule of thumb is, "If June is dry, don't try" to double-crop small grains.

It is not necessary to be able to answer yes to each of these questions before double-cropping soybeans. But, the more of the above questions you can answer yes, the greater are your chances to increase the total profit for your farm.

Further information on double-cropping may be found in the Ohio Agronomy Guide, Cooperative Extension Service Bulletin 472, available at the County Extension Office, 137 W. Franklin Street, Circleville.

Outdoor Living Guide Available

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

A home's outdoor living area carefully planned, can provide the scene for many enjoyable hours. All of the outdoor facilities, and their uses, should be considered in relation to each other before any construction begins, according to Extension Agricultural Engineers at The Ohio State University.

There are many outdoor living areas that may be included in a plan, such as:

- Play areas — type and size of play equipment and its location.
- Game areas that require a specified space; also each game area location.
- Rest areas that will be available to play participants.
- Entertaining space designed for adults.
- Paths and traffic routes between play and entertaining areas and the house or parking areas.
- Storage areas that can protect and keep tools, toys, and other items and equipment out of sight when not in use.
- Work and garden space — clothes lines, compost tank, flowers and gardens.

Before planning or constructing any of these outdoor living areas for your home, the engineers suggest getting a copy of "Outdoor Living - Planning and Construction Guide," available at your local Extension Office. Planning information in the book can be used to design and locate your facilities to take advantage of the terrain, the climate and your personal preferences. The included construction details and explanations can then be used as guidelines or exact dimensions for many of the items included in your plan.

"Outdoor Living - Planning and Construction Guide" is available from local Extension Offices for $1.

A Page Of Opinion

New York's Answer

In Wall Street they call it "performance." Anywhere else it would be gambling. And opinion is sharply divided about its merits.

But it involves billions of dollars, which makes it one of the biggest arguments in the financial world.

"Performance" means keeping your eye on the movement of the newer growth stocks, trading often for gains, trying always to outperform other traders, and seeking capital gains rather than dividends.

Those who believe emphasis on performance is a hazard say it causes traders often to overlook the essentials, to deal in fashions. They say it puts the big portfolio managers—the trusts, the mutual funds, the insurance companies, the pension funds—in the position of always having to show bigger gains than their competitors.

This, in some views, causes investors to lose sight of the traditional hallmarks of a good stock—earnings that are likely to continue and management that is sound. Replacing these criteria is the attempt to guess which stocks will grow fastest. And that is a chancy business.

Good or bad, "performance" apparently is here to stay—at least until some other fad comes along.

Took On A Task

NEW YORK — Toots Shor, the famous author, read every word of the 1,308 page paraphrase of the 3 hours of White House tapes (and more) demanded by the House Judiciary Committee—even though he has a bad case of chapped lips. And an arthritic forefinger. Took guts.

"What do you think?" I asked Toots, who is working on a book titled, "Burns I've Met."

"It reads like one of O'neal Mad-den's meets," said Toots, evoking the name of the cherished hood who was Toot's personal godfather in prohibition times.

Irvin Mitchell Felt, chairman of Madison Square Garden, is a keen fan of a non-athlete, Dr. Henry Kissinger. Felt was host to the hockey-enthusiast Kissingers during the Stanley Cup playoffs at the Garden.

"How do you get time to sleep and rest with all your travel, you meetings, preparation of your papers, speeches?" Felt asked his friend.

The U.S. Secretary of State replied, in English, "When you're happy with what you're doing, you don't need sleep."

(Applause in the hall.)

President Nixon did not attend the 60th annual White House Correspondents Association dinner this year in Washington. His staff must have fouled up things once again. He wound up in Washington, true, but it was in the town of Spokane in the State of Washington.

Well, can't lose 'em all, right?

I enjoy attending the White House correspondents' dinner. It is much less rapid compositing with few party spokesmen reading ghost-written speeches they generally aren't bright enough to understand. Besides, the White House correspondents' bash is black tie not white tie and tails. To paraphrase the late great Sam Goldwyn, anybody who hires a white tie and tails ensemble, or goes to see a psychiatrist, should have his head examined.

There are reportorial members of the highly selective Gridiron Club who can't wait for one of those twice-annual dinners at the Statler Hilton in Washington to end so that they can repeat their lines for their wives the next day. (The wives always seem puzzled why their husbands roared with laughter the night before over such lines as, "Here comes Carl Albert now!") Said members spend the next six months writing lyrics trying to rhyme Sen. Roman Lee Hruska with John Philip Sousa, and one wonders how many stories they miss en route.

The embarrassing thing about the White House correspondents' dinner the past couple of years is that the correspondents association distributes some of the most important prizes in American Journalism — prizes bearing the names of Ray Clapper, Merriman Smith and Worth Bingham... and they tend to go, more and more, to reporters who have dug into and exposed some of the worst scandals in the history of American politics. (As they should.)

Trouble is that much of the head table at the dinner, since Watergate, has been filled with Nixon Administration people. It becomes something of a strain, therefore, to hear M. C. Ted Knap of the Scripps-Howard papers say, in effect, "And the winner is so and so who exposed the break-in of Watergate, the smash into Dr. Fielding's office, the bribe attempts, the milk scandal, Howard Hughes' and Robert Vesco's contributions, the real story behind the erased tapes, the $10,000,000 improvement on the President's private White Houses, John Dean's defection,

E. Howard Hunt's demands... etc. etc."

Maybe there should be separate dinners next year; the White House correspondents one week and the guests of honor at the head table the next week.

The Times and other papers gave short obituary shrift to Adm. James O. Richardson (Ret.) who died the other day at 95. Adm. Richardson commanded the U.S. fleet from October, 1940, to February, 1941.

We had to let him go, you know. He protested the decision by the Roosevelt Administration to keep the Pacific fleet based in Hawaiian waters.

As any fool with 20-20 hindsight might agree, all hell might have broken loose if we had left those sitting ducks berthed there later that year — like December 7, say.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The standard or consensus forecast, made up of the views of private and government forecasters, seems to favor a decline in the rate of inflation and interest rates later this year.

In the recent past those hopes remained unfulfilled, so forecasters are under greater pressure now to state their case in specifics rather than generalities. Here are some of the specifics that support their view:

—Much of the huge increase in oil has now worked its way through the production process to the point of sale. It is unlikely that any future increases will be of the same magnitude.

—Commodity price increases, although they continue, aren't of the same magnitude as they were during the past year.

—The world's harvests show signs of being more abundant than in the past year or so, indicating some lessening of pressure on food prices.

—Removal of price controls, while it might cause some immediate price increases, will tend to make some products more available and thus cause a levelling of prices over a period of months.

—There are indications that wage and benefit settlements in major labor contracts are likely to be only moderate, a reaction to an anticipated rise in the unemployment rate.

—Inflation and shrinking buying power is likely to convince many consumers that spending for big ticket items should be postponed.

But there's still another side of the forecasts. A lot of hope still lies at the root of those assumptions, nourishing an optimism that isn't shared by all. Critics of the consensus point out that:

—Harvests tend to be unpredictable. While the United States can look forward to a record wheat harvest, for example, can the same be said of all the world's wheat and rice producers?

Moreover, the increased demands for foods reflect a longterm situation—the rise in the world's population, coupled with a desire for more nutritional balance throughout the world.

—Nobody can say for sure what effect the removal of price controls will have. Some of the increases already announced are in very basic areas, steel and automobiles, for example, which affect prices of other goods and services.

—Despite high interest rates, business continues to lay plans for massive spending on plant and equipment. While this might make them more productive, more efficient over the long term, it could add to inflation and interest rates this year.

—Some economists doubt that wage demands will remain moderate, especially since the buying power of wage earners is declining. They are, in fact, surprised at labor's stance.

Gas Coupons Could Fool Machines

WASHINGTON (AP) — If they are ever issued, some of the government's 4.8 billion gasoline rationing coupons could find their way into dollar-changing machines as bogus bills, a congressman says.

But the Federal Energy Office says such use of the coupons would be a money-losing proposition for the user, since the certificates probably would be worth more than $1 on the open market for their intended purpose.

Rep. Bill Gunter, D-Fla., raised the issue Thursday, saying the image of George Washington used on the face of the coupons triggers the change-return mechanism in the changing machines. The identical image appears on the $1 bill.

Gunter said energy officials have concluded that the coupons, printed at a cost of $12.5 million as a contingency and now in government storage, may have to be destroyed.

"It means the taxpayers have just bought a $12.5-million supply of waste paper, which, if stacked coupon on top of worthless coupon, would tower 13 miles into the sky," he contended.

An energy office spokesman confirmed that the coupons could activate some change machines, but he said no decision has been made to destroy them.

The idea of using Washington's picture was to help citizens spot counterfeit coupons by comparing the coupon image with that on a $1 bill, he explained.

Although the Stars and Stripes originated in 1777, it was not until 146 years later that there was a serious attempt to establish a uniform code of etiquette for the U.S. flag.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

One of the great threats to hemophiliacs, or bleeders, has been the problem of a dental extraction.

Bleeders are known to be deficient in the clotting factor, known as "factor VIII." The discovery of this factor has been one of the most remarkable contributions to saving the lives of people burdened with the hereditary taint of hemophilia.

An enormous amount of blood is required to extract enough of the factor VII for protective use of hemophiliacs.

A new chemical, epsilonamino-caproic acid, now reduces the need for large amounts of factor VIII.

Dr. Peter Walsh, of Temple University in Philadelphia, has reported a great number of cases of dental extractions that have been successfully performed with a marked reduction of complications associated with dental surgery in hemophiliacs.

It is hoped that the new chemical, or some variation of it, may eventually be employed in all other types of surgery performed on hemophiliacs.

Clinical engineers are becoming more and more important in the total practice of medicine and surgery.

Their knowledge and contribution have been enormous, in the operating room, and in intensive care units that are now part of every major hospital.

So extraordinary is the role that they play that some medical schools are offering advance degrees in Biomedical Engineering to more closely ally medicine and engineering.

The creation of electronic equipment and the monitoring of these instruments when applied to patients need the specialized knowledge of engineers acquainted with medicine.

Prostaglandins have been reported in these columns for about five years. The scientific literature seemed to predict that prostaglandins held promise of being the wonder drugs of all time. Slowly, they are beginning to fulfill their promise.

The early laboratory studies showed prostaglandins to be of value in arthritis, asthma, in the control of high blood pressure and in fertility.

Now, the Upjohn Company has released the information that prostaglandins may be of extreme value in treating peptic ulcers of the stomach.

Costs Of Farming To Offset Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increases this year in the costs of farming probably will more than offset another substantial boost in gross farm income, the Agriculture Department's outlook and situation board predicts.

But even so, its projected $4-billion decrease from 1973 in net farm income to $26.1 billion would be second only to last year's record in the agricultural statistics books.

The board, in its summary Friday of the upcoming quarterly demand-and-price situation report, said the second half of this year should see expanding livestock supplies and record grain production, "assuming normal weather."

"With increasing output and moderating demand, crop prices could decline dramatically, particularly late in 1974, and average near year-earlier levels..."

"For all of 1974, marketing from farming may total almost $7 billion above 1973. Subtracting from this a more than $2 billion decline in government payments to farmers would leave gross incomes up about $5 billion.

"However, production expenses are up sharply, fueled by the dramatic rise in prices of petroleum products and fertilizer. Outlays for feed and seed also show large increases in both quantity and price. These factors, coupled with a rapid rate of general inflation in the economy will push production expenses more than $9 billion above last year..." the forecasters said.

But, the board cautioned both optimists and pessimists that the normal uncertainties about the international grain harvest still exist and the farm market is especially sensitive these days.

"This outlook is heavily dependent upon the realization of the current production and use projections for both livestock and crops... An awareness of the uncertainties within agriculture and the tenuous outlook for the general economy are crucial to understanding the situation," the summary said.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Words cannot express my deep felt gratitude and appreciation to the nurses and nurses' aides of the Circleville Manor, who were so kind to my mother, Mrs. Edna Hanawalt during her last illness and passing.

A special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson and their daughter, Mrs. Wanda Minks for their kindness and consideration in helping to make my grief more bearable. The Circleville Community is indeed fortunate for such people as they who are so kind and understanding of the needs of the elderly.

Having been at the Manor both night and day since Feb. 23, I can truthfully say that Pickaway County is indeed fortunate for this facility and to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson who so ably manage it.

A Page Of Opinion

New York's Answer

In Wall Street they call it "performance." Anywhere else it would be gambling. And opinion is sharply divided about its merits.

But it involves billions of dollars, which makes it one of the biggest arguments in the financial world.

"Performance" means keeping your eye on the movement of the newer growth stocks, trading often for gains, trying always to outperform other traders, and seeking capital gains rather than dividends.

Those who believe emphasis on performance is a hazard say it causes traders often to overlook the essentials, to deal in fashions. They say it puts the big portfolio managers—

the trusts, the mutual funds, the insurance companies, the pension funds—in the position of always having to show bigger gains than their competitors.

This, in some views, causes investors to lose sight of the traditional hallmarks of a good stock—earnings that are likely to continue and management that is sound. Replacing these criteria is the attempt to guess which stocks will grow fastest. And that is a chancy business.

Good or bad, "performance" apparently is here to stay—at least until some other fad comes along.

Took On A Task

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Toots Shor, the famous author, read every word of the 1,308 page paraphrase of the 3 hours of White House tapes (and more) demanded by the House Judiciary Committee—even though he has a bad case of chapped lips. And an arthritic forefinger. Took guts.

"What do you think?" I asked Toots, who is working on a book titled, "Burns I've Met."

"It reads like one of O'neal Mad-den's meets," said Toots, evoking the name of the cherished hood who was Toot's personal godfather in prohibition times.

Irvin Mitchell Felt, chairman of Madison Square Garden, is a keen fan of a non-athlete, Dr. Henry Kissinger. Felt was host to the hockey-enthusiast Kissingers during the Stanley Cup playoffs at the Garden.

"How do you get time to sleep and rest with all your travel, you meetings, preparation of your papers, speeches?" Felt asked his friend.

The U.S. Secretary of State replied, in English, "When you're happy with what you're doing, you don't need sleep."

(Applause in the hall.)

President Nixon did not attend the 60th annual White House Correspondents Association dinner this year in Washington. His staff must have fouled up things once again. He wound up in Washington, true, but it was in the town of Spokane in the State of Washington.

Well, can't lose 'em all, right?

I enjoy attending the White House correspondents' dinner. It is much less rapid pomposity with few party spokesmen reading ghost-written speeches they generally aren't bright enough to understand. Besides, the White House correspondents' bash is black tie not white tie and tails. To paraphrase the late great Sam Goldwyn, anybody who hires a white tie and tails ensemble, or goes to see a psychiatrist, should have his head examined.

There are reportorial members of the highly selective Gridiron Club who can't wait for one of those twice-annual dinners at the Statler Hilton in Washington to end so that they can repeat their lines for their wives the next day. (The wives always seem puzzled why their husbands roared with laughter the night before over such lines as, "Here comes Carl Albert now!") Said members spend the next six months writing lyrics trying to rhyme Sen. Roman Lee Hruska with John Philip Sousa, and one wonders how many stories they miss en route.

The embarrassing thing about the White House correspondents' dinner the past couple of years is that the correspondents association distributes some of the most important prizes in American Journalism — prizes

bearing the names of Ray Clapper, Merriman Smith and Worth Bingham... and they tend to go, more and more, to reporters who have dug into and exposed some of the worst scandals in the history of American politics. (As they should.)

Trouble is that much of the head table at the dinner, since Watergate, has been filled with Nixon Administration people. It becomes something of a strain, therefore, to hear M. C. Ted Knap of the Scripps-Howard papers say, in effect, "And the winner is so and so who exposed the break-in of Watergate, the smash into Dr. Fielding's office, the bribe attempts, the milk scandal, Howard Hughes' and Robert Vesco's contributions, the real story behind the erased tapes, the $10,000,000 improvement on the President's private White Houses, John Dean's defection,

E. Howard Hunt's demands... etc. etc."

Maybe there should be separate dinners next year; the White House correspondents one week and the guests of honor at the head table the next week.

The Times and other papers gave short obituary shrift to Adm. James O. Richardson (Ret.) who died the other day at 95. Adm. Richardson commanded the U.S. fleet from October, 1940, to February, 1941.

We had to let him go, you know. He protested the decision by the Roosevelt Administration to keep the Pacific fleet based in Hawaiian waters.

As any fool with 20-20 hindsight might agree, all hell might have broken loose if we had left those sitting ducks berthed there later that year — like December 7, say.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The standard or consensus forecast, made up of the views of private and government forecasters, seems to favor a decline in the rate of inflation and interest rates later this year.

In the recent past those hopes remained unfulfilled, so forecasters are under greater pressure now to state their case in specifics rather than generalities. Here are some of the specifics that support their view:

—Much of the huge increase in oil has now worked its way through the production process to the point of sale. It is unlikely that any future increases will be of the same magnitude.

—Commodity price increases, although they continue, aren't of the same magnitude as they were during the past year.

—The world's harvests show signs of being more abundant than in the past year or so, indicating some lessening of pressure on food prices.

—Removal of price controls, while it might cause some immediate price increases, will tend to make some products more available and thus cause a levelling of prices over a period of months.

—There are indications that wage and benefit settlements in major labor contracts are likely to be only moderate, a reaction to an anticipated rise in the unemployment rate.

—Inflation and shrinking buying power is likely to convince many consumers that spending for big ticket items should be postponed.

But there's still another side of the forecasts. A lot of hope still lies at the root of those assumptions, nourishing an optimism that isn't shared by all. Critics of the consensus point out that: —Harvests tend to be unpredictable. While the United States can look forward to a record wheat harvest, for example, can the same be said of all the world's wheat and rice producers?

Moreover, the increased demands for foods reflect a long-term situation—the rise in the world's population, coupled with a desire for more nutritional balance throughout the world.

—Nobody can say for sure what effect the removal of price controls will have. Some of the increases already announced are in very basic areas, steel and automobiles, for example, which affect prices of other goods and services.

—Despite high interest rates, business continues to lay plans for massive spending on plant and equipment. While this might make them more productive, more efficient over the long term, it could add to inflation and interest rates this year.

—Some economists doubt that wage demands will remain moderate, especially since the buying power of wage earners is declining. They are, in fact, surprised at labor's stance.

Gas Coupons Could Fool Machines

WASHINGTON (AP) — If they are ever issued, some of the government's 4.8 billion gasoline rationing coupons could find their way into dollar-changing machines as bogus bills, a congressman says.

But the Federal Energy Office says such use of the coupons would be a money-losing proposition for the user, since the certificates probably would be worth more than $1 on the open market for their intended purpose.

Rep. Bill Gunter, D-Fla., raised the issue Thursday, saying the image of George Washington used on the face of the coupons triggers the change-return mechanism in the changing machines. The identical image appears on the $1 bill.

Gunter said energy officials have concluded that the coupons, printed at a cost of $12.5 million as a contingency and now in government storage, may have to be destroyed.

"It means the taxpayers have just bought a $12.5-million supply of waste paper, which, if stacked coupon on top of worthless coupon, would tower 13 miles into the sky," he contended.

An energy office spokesman confirmed that the coupons could activate some change machines, but he said no decision has been made to destroy them.

The idea of using Washington's picture was to help citizens spot counterfeit coupons by comparing the coupon image with that on a $1 bill, he explained.

Although the Stars and Stripes originated in 1777, it was not until 146 years later that there was a serious attempt to establish a uniform code of etiquette for the U.S. flag.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

One of the great threats to hemophiliacs, or bleeders, has been the problem of a dental extraction.

Bleeders are known to be deficient in the clotting factor, known as "factor VIII." The discovery of this factor has been one of the most remarkable contributions to saving the lives of people burdened with the hereditary taint of hemophilia.

An enormous amount of blood is required to extract enough of the factor VII for protective use of hemophiliacs.

A new chemical, epsilonamino-caproic acid, now reduces the need for large amounts of factor VIII.

Dr. Peter Walsh, of Temple University in Philadelphia, has reported a great number of cases of dental extractions that have been successfully performed with a marked reduction of complications associated with dental surgery in hemophiliacs.

It is hoped that the new chemical, or some variation of it, may eventually be employed in all other types of surgery performed on hemophiliacs.

Clinical engineers are becoming more and more important in the total practice of medicine and surgery.

Their knowledge and contribution have been enormous, in the operating room, and in intensive care units that are now part of every major hospital.

So extraordinary is the role that they play that some medical schools are offering advance degrees in Biomedical Engineering to more closely ally medicine and engineering.

The creation of electronic equipment and the monitoring of these instruments when applied to patients need the specialized knowledge of engineers acquainted with medicine.

Prostaglandins have been reported in these columns for about five years. The scientific literature seemed to predict that prostaglandins held promise of being the wonder drugs of all time. Slowly, they are beginning to fulfill their promise.

The early laboratory studies showed prostaglandins to be of value in arthritis, asthma, in the control of high blood pressure and in fertility.

Now, the Upjohn Company has released the information that prostaglandins may be of extreme value in treating peptic ulcers of the stomach.

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, PHONE 986-3481

By nature I am not an envious person but lately every bone in my bod envies those people who are organized and up-to-the-minute with things that need doing because at this point in time I calculate I am just barely under one month behind in most everything and instead of gaining any ground I am losing a little more each 24 hours.

Well, sitting here feeling sorry for myself will not get this column done so be on with it for time's a-wastin'.

Our neighbor gal, Ruth Plummer, is back in her bungalow and daily routine after nearly four weeks in the warm balmy atmosphere of Orlando, Fla. Ruth was with her niece Mrs. June Huber and spent much time admiring her brand new great-grandniece Tracey Lynn Huber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Huber.

Friends will be concerned to learn that John Shaeffer fell at his home recently and suffered an injury. A watchful eye is being kept on him by "Bus" and Helen Whitten and Jim at their home, along with many other members of his family.

Sunday dinner guests of A.J. and Juanita Cook and Shana Wills were Jessie and Gertrude Cook of Marysville, and Mrs. Emma Crewell of Mt. Sterling. In the afternoon they all enjoyed the Westfall band concert. Shana is a member of the band (one of the French horn tooters).

It was birthday time Monday for Darl Miller — in fact his 72nd — and he was guest of honor at a family dinner Sunday planned by his one and only Bessie, Shirley and Helen Stant of Whisler; Bob and Ginger Stant and Erin of Logan Elm Village; Larry and Judy Stant and Chris of Jefferson Addition; Johnny and Vicky Stant of our village; Mike and Gail Stauffer, Brent and Andy from down yonder in Kinnikinick; Brad and Donna Thompson and Marci, Charlie and Esther Picklesimer and Faith Ann (Lollipop) and Kelly McCafferty, all villagers.

Later this week daughter Jean Markel and her hubby Dick and daughters Mindy and Mel of Chillicothe had another birthday supper with dad. Aslo joining them was Faith Ann Picklesimer who never misses a chance to be with grandma and grandpa (and to eat with them).

All of Esther Picklesimer's family will fete her Sunday with dinner at the Lake White Club, Waverly, where reservations have been made for Dave and Janet Lovett and Trent of Athens, Mike and Gail Stauffer, Brent and Andy, from the booming environs of Kinnikinick (which I can never remember how to spell), the Thompsons — Brad, Donna and Marci and of course good old Charlie and that Lollipop.

Randy Howell and Glenn Poston of near Belmont were in town for the weekend and renewed friendships with our sweet love of a daughter Maria Martha Arguello, Alejandro Garces (the Marvie Baby Thompsons son) and Maria Cristina Ramos (daughter to the John Graffis'). "Our kids" had met the two boys while students at Union Local High School at Belmont during the first three months they were in the United States.

It hardly seems possible we have had the pleasure of their company for two months already. In such a very short time will be the heat-wrenching day of bidding farewell and one wonders even now how we can bear up. Though tears mist our eyes and the lump in the throat gets ever larger we must always remember that the tears of parting are but a small price to pay for the complete joy and rewards of having known and loved these "beautiful kids".

Words somehow always fail me when I try to express what a truly wonderful experience it can be to take into one's home a youngster from another culture and learn from them and they from you. It is a giving and taking relationship that has no equal actually. If I could be granted but one wish I do believe it would be that each and every home would avail themselves of the golden opportunity to share, to love and be loved, to know the deep sense of satisfaction of having contributed, however little, toward the brotherhood of us all. Each little drop will eventually fill the bucket full, you know.

The medal for performance way above and beyond that of the ordinary citizen goes hands down this week to none other than Curtis Keller. Being the modest sort he is, we will refrain from going into detail but he is a winner that's for sure — his spouse Millie can share his accolade and deservingly so. How say you Morning Glories league members — right on? Right on!

Summer leagues began this week at Circle D and yours truly is now bowling on Thursday morning and it is surprising how much different it seemed from Tuesday morning (maybe that's why I am so behind myself).

Which brings me to this thing about: The hurrier I go, the behinder I get. (old Dutch saying) Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care.

SCOUTS COOPERATE — Boy Scouts from troops 52 and 205 performed a major cleanup of a portion of Hargus Creek, Ted Lewis Park and the adjacent railroad property in cooperation with the city's clean up program. The young men had special thoughts for those persons so careless about the environment of our community. The time will be credited to the Scouts record. Such continuing efforts for the community are part of the Scout program.

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, PHONE 986-3481

By nature I am not an envious person but lately every bone in my body envies those people who are organized and up-to-the-minute with things that need doing because at this point in time I calculate I am just barely under one month behind in most everything and instead of gaining any ground I am losing a little more each 24 hours.

Well, sitting here feeling sorry for myself will not get this column done so be on with it for time's a-wastin'.

Our neighbor gal, Ruth Plummer, is back in her bungalow and daily routine after nearly four weeks in the warm balmy atmosphere of Orlando, Fla. Ruth was with her niece Mrs. June Huber and spent much time admiring her brand new great-grandniece Tracey Lynn Huber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Huber.

Friends will be concerned to learn that John Shaeffer fell at his home recently and suffered an injury. A watchful eye is being kept on him by "Bus" and Helen Whitten and Jim at their home, along with many other members of his family.

Sunday dinner guests of A.J. and Juanita Cook and Shana Wills were Jessie and Gertrude Cook of Marysville, and Mrs. Emma Crewell of Mt. Sterling. In the afternoon they all enjoyed the Westfall band concert. Shana is a member of the band (one of the French horn tooters).

It was birthday time Monday for Darl Miller — in fact his 72nd — and he was guest of honor at a family dinner Sunday planned by his one and only Bessie, Shirley and Helen Stant of Whisler; Bob and Ginger Stant and Erin of Logan Elm Village; Larry and Judy Stant and Chris of Jefferson Addition; Johnny and Vicky Stant of our village; Mike and Gail Stauffer, Brent and Andy from down yonder in Kinnikinnick; Brad and Donna Thompson and Marci, Charlie and Esther Picklesimer and Faith Ann (Lollipop) and Kelly McCafferty, all villagers.

Later this week daughter Jean Markel and her hubby Dick and daughters Mindy and Mel of Chillicothe had another birthday supper with dad. Also joining them was Faith Ann Picklesimer who never misses a chance to be with grandma and grandpa (and to eat with them).

All of Esther Picklesimer's family will fete her Sunday with dinner at the Lake White Club, Waverly, where reservations have been made for Dave and Janet Lovett and Trent of Athens, Mike and Gail Stauffer, Brent and Andy, from the booming environs of Kinnikinnick (which I can never remember how to spell), the Thompsons — Brad, Donna and Marci and of course good old Charlie and that Lollipop.

Randy Howell and Glenn Poston of near Belmont were in town for the weekend and renewed friendships with our sweet love of a daughter Maria Martha Arguello, Alejandro Garces (the Marvie Baby Thompsons son) and Maria Cristina Ramos (daughter to the John Graffis'). "Our kids" had met the two boys while students at Union Local High School at Belmont during the first three months they were in the United States.

It hardly seems possible we have had the pleasure of their company for two months already. In such a very short time will be the heat-wrenching day of bidding farewell and one wonders even now how we can bear up. Though tears mist our eyes and the lump in the throat gets ever larger we must always remember that the tears of parting are but a small price to pay for the complete joy and rewards of having known and loved these "beautiful kids".

Words somehow always fail me when I try to express what a truly wonderful experience it can be to take into one's home a youngster from another culture and learn from them and they from you. It is a giving and taking relationship that has no equal actually. If I could be granted but one wish I do believe it would be that each and every home would avail themselves of the golden opportunity to share, to love and be loved, to know the deep sense of satisfaction of having contributed, however little, toward the brotherhood of us all. Each little drop will eventually fill the bucket full, you know.

The medal for performance way above and beyond that of the ordinary citizen goes hands down this week to none other than Curtis Keller. Being the modest sort he is, we will refrain from going into detail but he is a winner that's for sure — his spouse Millie can share his accolade and deservingly so. How say you Morning Glories league members — right on? Right on!

Summer leagues began this week at Circle D and yours truly is now bowling on Thursday morning and it is surprising how much different it seemed from Tuesday morning (maybe that's why I am so behind myself).

Which brings me to this thing about: The hurrier I go, the behinder I get. (old Dutch saying) Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Lover Turns Cold

DEAR ABBY: I was the housekeeper for a man and his wife for four years. His wife died rather suddenly, so he asked me to stay on, which I did gladly. A few months later, he asked me to eat dinner with him. Then we started watching television together, and finally he came to my bedroom and I had an affair with him.

This continued for about three months, and I was very happy about it, but suddenly he stopped being friendly and started to act like nothing ever happened between us.

I couldn't bear it any longer, so I asked him why he didn't make love to me anymore, and he said he didn't love me-no bells rang, and it should never have happened in the first place, and would I please forget it?

Abby, how can I forget it? I am 40 years old and never was married. He is nearly 60, and I think I am in love with him. Now what?

NO TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO: Now you should wise up and tell the gentleman to find another housekeeper. (Maybe the next one will be a bell-ringer.) Don't remain in his employ. There is nothing ahead for you there but unhappiness and regret.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law has a job as good as the one I have, but she doesn't budget her money, so consequently she is always in debt and never has anything to show for her money.

I am just the opposite. I shop around and spend my money wisely, and I have a very nice wardrobe. My sister-in-law is my size, so everytime she sees me wearing something new she says: "When you're through with that, throw it my way."

It makes me feel like I should give it to her after I've worn it a season, but I like to keep my clothes from one season to the next, and I don't really want to "throw" anything her way or

Dountz Lists Activities

Pickaway County Sheriff's Community Relations Bureau Deputy Bill Dountz released a schedule of activities for the public to attend.

Monday, 10:30 a.m.; Ashville third grade, tour of county jail; 7:30 p.m. Explorer's meeting.

Walnut PTO Plans Meeting

The Walnut Township Parent-Teachers Organization has scheduled an important meeting 7 p.m. Monday at the school.

The election of officers for the 1974-75 school year will be held.

The fifth and sixth grade bands, directed by Fred Brobst, will present a musical program for those present.

Mr. Barnett, principal, reports the chain link tennis nets and baseball backstops for the playground have arrived. Six record-tape players, 'quick splints' for the physical education department and science experiments for the classrooms were purchased for the students by the PTO.

LE Boosters To Meet

The Logan Elm Booster Club will hold its last meeting of the school year 7:30 p.m. Monday at the high school.

anybody else's way.

How should I handle it? If I say: "I'll keep you in mind," then I'm committed to give it to her. If I don't say anything she can assume she'll get it eventually.

I have given her a few things in the past, but I don't like to be rushed.

Any suggestions?

LIKES TO DRESS

DEAR LIKES: I disagree. Silence doesn't necessarily imply agreement. But to avoid a misunderstanding, say: "I'm glad you like it, but I'm not making any promises."

DEAR ABBY: I was faithfully married for 18 years to a man I can only describe as a kind considerate husband. He doesn't chase is a good provider and a good father. Bed hasn't been very exciting for me for many years, but I put on an act for the benefit of his ego. He had no idea he wasn't the greatest lover, but I didn't know how bad until I ran into Jimmy, which is why I have his problem.

Jimmy was my high school boyfriend who just happened to be in town on business. It's a very long story, but let me say Jimmy and I have been meeting at a motel a few afternoons a month for the last five months. We're not in love and nobody is going to leave anybody over this. We're just filling a need in the lives of one another. I never knew a 40-year-old woman, married for 18 years could come to life the way I did.

The problem is that the act has become harder and harder to keep up at home. Comparisons in techniques and results leave me a wreck! Now I'm in a trap of my own making. It was alright as long as I didn't know what I was missing.

There is no way to approach this with my husband. I'd be apt to get one rap for complaining, and another for knowing the difference. At 40, I'm not ready to give up sex, and at 50, my husband isn't going to get any better in bed. Where do I go from here?

Wives Set Lucasville Protest

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A union representing prison guards at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville says about 150 wives of guards will demonstrate Sunday for better pay and security for their husbands.

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, said between 150 and 200 wives are expected to picket the institution.

A group of women picketed the prison last Sunday after guard Ray York, 42, was stabbed during a religious service for inmates May 1, said Joseph Havener, the institution's superintendent.

York was released from the hospital Wednesday after undergoing surgery.

Havener said he is meeting with representatives of the AFSCME, as well as the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association and the Teamsters Union.

Havener said the prison administration and the unions are working on a plan which may cut down the possibility of injuries to guards.

He said a new work schedule may be implemented providing for fewer guards at night, when prisoners are locked in their cells, and more during the day, when prisoners are on recreation and meal periods.

The current attraction at the Columbus-Springfield Dinner Theatre is "The Tender Trap", a comedy by Max Schulman and Robert Paul Smith. A charming plot involves a foot-loose and fancy-free New York Bachelor played by John Aquino. The plot gets thicker as his variety of lady friends begin to discover each other.

Aquino has several acting performances to his credit including a role in the movie "Valachi Papers". In "The Tender Trap", he displays a talent far above average.

Playing the bachelor's married friend, Joe, is Tom Myler who really puts the proverbial "icing on the cake" as far as the comedy is concerned. He holds a masters degree in theatre from West Virginia University and has played dinner theaters before with great success as well as movie credits including "Cops and Robbers". Bearing a striking resemblance to Dick Sergeant of TV's "Bewitched" fame, Myler is just as well-suited to the comedy situation as the star.

Four young ladies vie for the limelight in the eight-member cast. Playing the women of Charlie's life are Helene Leonard, Jennifer W. Blood, Christina Kaye and Jany Meyer. Completing the casting are Mitch Douglas who has played other roles in the play but does the part of the scientist expertly. Edward G. Betlow as Sol is a junior at Ramapo College of New Jersey working on a major in theater. Although "The Tender Trap" crew is the first dinner theater tour he has made, he plays with the expertise of a pro.

Several of the parts call for accents and voice quirks which are carried out to the delight of the audience.

An evening at the Columbus-Springfield Dinner Theatre is one of par excellence beginning with a lavish smorgasbord buffet and ending with a delightful Broadway play.

"The Tender Trap" will run through May 26 followed by "Stop The World I Want To Get Off" running through June 30. The third attraction to carry the playbill through August 4 is "Lovers and Other Strangers".

Reservations for the current play or either of the upcoming performances may be obtained by calling toll free 1-800-282-1950.

Guyer Wins Apology

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Common Cause, the National citizen's lobby, has apologized to Rep. Tennyson Guyer, R-Ohio for listing him among its top 12 recipients of non-labor money in his last campaign, it was learned today.

In a letter, John Conway, associate director of the group's campaign finance monitoring project, blamed a clerical error for Guyer's inclusion.

A recheck of the figures showed Guyer's ranking "dropped drastically" with regard to special interest contributions, Conway said.

Another Ohio Congressman, Rep. William E. Minshall Jr., R-Ohio, also was listed among the top 12 on the list. The list included House members only.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Lover Turns Cold

DEAR ABBY: I was the housekeeper for a man and his wife for four years. His wife died rather suddenly, so he asked me to stay on, which I did gladly. A few months later, he asked me to eat dinner with him. Then we started watching television together, and finally he came to my bedroom and I had an affair with him.

This continued for about three months, and I was very happy about it, but suddenly he stopped being friendly and started to act like nothing ever happened between us.

I couldn't bear it any longer, so I asked him why he didn't make love to me anymore, and he said he didn't love me-no bells rang, and it should never have happened in the first place, and would I please forget it?

Abby, how can I forget it? I am 40 years old and never was married. He is nearly 60, and I think I am in love with him. Now what?

NO TOWN, PLEASE
DEAR NO: Now you should wise up and tell the gentleman to find another housekeeper. (Maybe the next one will be a bell-ringer.) Don't remain in his employ. There is nothing ahead for you there but unhappiness and regret.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law has a job as good as the one I have, but she doesn't budget her money, so consequently she is always in debt and never has anything to show for her money.

I am just the opposite. I shop around and spend my money wisely, and I have a very nice wardrobe. My sister-in-law is my size, so everytime she sees me wearing something new she says: "When you're through with that, throw it my way."

It makes me feel like I should give it to her after I've worn it a season, but I like to keep my clothes from one season to the next, and I don't really want to "throw" anything her way or

I have given her a few things in the past, but I don't like to be rushed.

Any suggestions?

LIKES TO DRESS

DEAR LIKES: I disagree. Silence doesn't necessarily imply agreement. But to avoid a misunderstanding, say: "I'm glad you like it, but I'm not making any promises."

DEAR ABBY: I was faithfully married for 18 years to a man I can only describe as a kind considerate husband. He doesn't chase is a good provider and a good father. Bed hasn't been very exciting for me for many years, but I put on an act for the benefit of his ego. He had no idea he wasn't the greatest lover, but I didn't know how bad until I ran into Jimmy, which is why I have this problem.

Week's Docket Includes 7 Dismissals

Cases terminated by Judge Guy G. Cline in Juvenile Court this past week included dismissal of seven cases after the youths charged had finished their original terms of probation.

Eighteen youths were released from probation after serving part of the original sentence.

A 2½-month-old boy was placed in the permanent custody of his maternal grandparents. The court found the child to be neglected and the parents could not be located.

Chicago El Train Crash Injures 230

CHICAGO (AP)—The crash of two rush hour elevated trains, which injured more than 230 passengers, was the third serious Chicago Transit Authority train accident in a month.

The trains, each carrying about 300 passengers, crashed on the South Side Friday as the evening rush hour was ending.

Hospitals said those treated had minor injuries and that only a handful were admitted overnight for observation.

CTA spokesman Thomas Buck said one train had come to a stop and was struck from behind by the other.

The motorman of the first train had gotten off and was walking beside the track when the crash occurred, Buck said. He said that was standard procedure for emergency stops.

"It will take an investigation to find out," Buck said.

The more seriously injured were taken from the elevated structure by helicopters. The rest were placed on another train and then taken to hospitals by CTA buses.

Buck said damage to the trains was light.

On April 11, 27 persons were injured in the derailment of an elevated train as it rounded a sharp curve in the Loop. An investigation showed the motorman was going too fast. He was fired.

Seventeen passengers were injured April 22 when another elevated train derailed several blocks north of the earlier accident. The CTA said an emergency switch failed to work.

There have been two lesser mishaps over the last month.

On April 12, a heavy truck crashed through an expressway barrier and smashed into a CTA train, but fire in a CTA train Sunday and one passenger sprained an ankle as she jumped to safety.

White Takes OYC Post; Faces Strike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Joseph L. White, new chairman of the Ohio Youth Commission, says he will try to make the agency into one "that will bring hope to the future of Ohio that our children represent."

But his most immediate problem was a threatened strike by social workers, teachers and teaching aides employed by the commission.

White, 40, deputy director of the administration of justice division in the Department of Economic and Community Development since 1972, was named to the $28,828-a-year job Friday by Gov. John Gilligan.

He succeeds William J. Ensign, who resigned.

About the time the appointment was being announced, some 140 members of the State Teachers Guild of Ohio were voting to authorize their negotiating committee to call a strike because of a breakdown in contract negotiations.

Outstanding issues reportedly include case loads for social workers, class sizes, teacher vacation scheduling and political discrimination.

Gilligan presented White to other members of his cabinet Friday in the presence of newsmen and said the director's post is "one of the most important jobs in state government."

Government Still Against Tax Boost

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Nixon administration still is dead set against a tax increase, Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget said Friday.

"It would be the worst thing we could do at this time," he said.

"The proposed tax cut would reduce taxes for some taxpayers and would do nothing for those at the lower end of the economic scale. It would generate more inflation," he said.

President Nixon feels that inflation is the gravest problem facing the nation's economy, Ash went on. He said the inflation rate of nearly 15 per cent in the first quarter was "totally unacceptable" to the President who has taken personal control of the battle.

Ash forecast a drop in the inflation rate "to below a twodigit figure" by the end of the year. He said the prices of food and fuel, the two most significant factors in the rocketing inflation of the first three months, no longer were in danger of soaring out of control.

The director also predicted that the gross national product, which slumped at a six per cent annual rate in the first quarter, would make a comeback in the last half.

Seek Trio For Murder

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police said about 15 Columbus locations were being staked out in an effort to apprehend three men charged with the murder of a registered nurse.

Aggravated murder warrants were issued Friday for John W. Harris, 22; James Jerome Royster, 21, and Clarence Edward Smith, 22, all of Columbus.

Police believe the three abducted Jeanette Nichols, 45, as she drove to work at St. Anthony Hospital, sexually molested her and killed her with a shotgun blast at close range while she was lying face down in a field.

A fourth man, 18-year-old Baxter Martin of Columbus, was being held in lieu of $25,000 bond on a charge of forgery in connection with the attempted use of one of Mrs. Nichols' credit cards. However, police said he was not a suspect in the killing, itself.

Embargo On Oil Could Return

BEIRUT Lebanon (AP) — King Faisal of Saudi Arabia warned that the Arab oil embargo against the United States might be reimposed if no Syrian-Israeli troop disengagement pact is reached, according to the Beirut newspaper Al Anwar.

A dispatch from the Saudi capital said that Faisal made the comment when Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger visited him in Riyadh on Thursday.

Al Anwar quoted Faisal as telling Kissinger: "The decision last March to lift the embargo was conditional on a Golan disengagement. If no agreement is reached, a reconsideration of the decision is not unlikely."

Showers and scattered thundershowers are expected in Ohio late in the day and during the night Saturday, associated with a low pressure situated Saturday morning over Minnesota.

This low is moving northeastward into Canada, but the cold front is forecast to move eastward through Ohio tonight and beyond the state on Sunday.

Following the front, temperatures Sunday afternoon will probably not get above 60 or 65, along with partly cloudy to cloudy skies.

Skies were partly cloudy Friday night across Ohio as a high pressure area over the lower Great Lakes moved eastward.

Temperatures were on the chilly side in northern Ohio and Youngstown had readings in the upper 30s shortly before dawn. Further south and west over the state the mercury was in the 40s and lower 50s.

No Deduction For Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would ban President Nixon from receiving a tax deduction for charitable contributions of the White House tape recordings has been introduced by Rep. Jonathan Bingham, D-N. Y.

Bingham, in a statement Thursday, cited news reports—unconfirmed by the White House—that said the purpose of making the tapes was a future donation for tax purposes.

Congress five years ago prohibited contribution of personal papers for charitable and tax purposes, but that legislation left open the possibility of donating tapes.

"The bill I have introduced would make the law perfectly clear on this point," he said. "We cannot allow any elected official to derive substantial personal gain from the donation of tapes, papers, or other documents prepared in the course of his official duties."

Week's Docket Includes 7 Dismissals

Cases terminated by Judge Guy G. Cline in Juvenile Court this past week included dismissal of seven cases after the youths charged had finished their original terms of probation.

Eighteen youths were released from probation after serving part of the original sentence.

A 2½-month-old boy was placed in the permanent custody of his maternal grandparents. The court found the child to be neglected and the parents could not be located.

Chicago El Train Crash Injures 230

CHICAGO (AP)—The crash of two rush hour elevated trains, which injured more than 230 passengers, was the third serious Chicago Transit Authority train accident in a month.

The trains, each carrying about 300 passengers, crashed on the South Side Friday as the evening rush hour was ending.

Hospitals said those treated had minor injuries and that only a handful were admitted overnight for observation.

CTA spokesman Thomas Buck said one train had come to a stop and was struck from behind by the other.

The motorman of the first train had gotten off and was walking beside the track when the crash occurred, Buck said. He said that was standard procedure for emergency stops.

"It will take an investigation to find out," Buck said.

The more seriously injured were taken from the elevated structure by helicopters. The rest were placed on another train and then taken to hospitals by CTA buses.

Buck said damage to the trains was light.

On April 11, 27 persons were injured in the derailment of an elevated train as it rounded a sharp curve in the Loop. An investigation showed the motorman was going too fast. He was fired.

Seventeen passengers were injured April 22 when another elevated train derailed several blocks north of the earlier accident. The CTA said an emergency switch failed to work.

There have been two lesser mishaps over the last month.

On April 12, a heavy truck crashed through an expressway barrier and smashed into a CTA train, but fire in a CTA train Sunday and one passenger sprained an ankle as she jumped to safety.

White Takes OYC Post; Faces Strike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Joseph L. White, new chairman of the Ohio Youth Commission, says he will try to make the agency into one "that will bring hope to the future of Ohio that our children represent."

But his most immediate problem was a threatened strike by social workers, teachers and teaching aides employed by the commission.

White, 40, deputy director of the administration of justice division in the Department of Economic and Community Development since 1972, was named to the $28,828-a-year job Friday by Gov. John Gilligan.

He succeeds William J. Ensign, who resigned.

About the time the appointment was being announced, some 140 members of the State Teachers Guild of Ohio were voting to authorize their negotiating committee to call a strike because of a breakdown in contract negotiations.

Outstanding issues reportedly include case loads for social workers, class sizes, teacher vacation scheduling and political discrimination.

Gilligan presented White to other members of his cabinet Friday in the presence of newsmen and said the director's post is "one of the most important jobs in state government."

Brennan Slips On Ford Title

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Labor Secretary Peter Brennan did a fast turnaround after calling Vice President Gerald R. Ford "the President" in an introduction at a labor leaders luncheon.

Government Still Against Tax Boost

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Nixon administration still is dead set against a tax increase, Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget said Friday.

"It would be the worst thing we could do at this time," he said.

"The proposed tax cut would reduce taxes for some taxpayers and would do nothing for those at the lower end of the economic scale. It would generate more inflation," he said.

President Nixon feels that inflation is the gravest problem facing the nation's economy, Ash went on. He said the inflation rate of nearly 15 per cent in the first quarter was "totally unacceptable" to the President who has taken personal control of the battle.

Ash forecast a drop in the inflation rate "to below a twodigit figure" by the end of the year. He said the prices of food and fuel, the two most significant factors in the rocketing inflation of the first three months, no longer were in danger of soaring out of control.

The director also predicted that the gross national product, which slumped at a six per cent annual rate in the first quarter, would make a comeback in the last half.

Seek Trio For Murder

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police said about 15 Columbus locations were being staked out in an effort to apprehend three men charged with the murder of a registered nurse.

Aggravated murder warrants were issued Friday for John W. Harris, 22; James Jerome Royster, 21, and Clarence Edward Smith, 22, all of Columbus.

Police believe the three abducted Jeanette Nichols, 45, as she drove to work at St. Anthony Hospital, sexually molested her and killed her with a shotgun blast at close range while she was lying face down in a field.

A fourth man, 18-year-old Baxter Martin of Columbus, was being held in lieu of $25,000 bond on a charge of forgery in connection with the attempted use of one of Mrs. Nichols' credit cards. However, police said he was not a suspect in the killing, itself.

Embargo On Oil Could Return

BEIRUT Lebanon (AP)—King Faisal of Saudi Arabia warned that the Arab oil embargo against the United States might be reimposed if no Syrian-Israeli troop disengagement pact is reached, according to the Beirut newspaper Al Anwar.

A dispatch from the Saudi capital said that Faisal made the comment when Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger visited him in Riyadh on Thursday.

Al Anwar quoted Faisal as telling Kissinger: "The decision last March to lift the embargo was conditional on a Golan disengagement. If no agreement is reached, a reconsideration of the decision is not unlikely."

Tigers Upset SCO Leading Unioto, 13-9

Circleville's 13-hit attack Friday was too much for South Central Ohio League leader Unioto as the Tigers upset the loop's newest member, 13-9, on the local diamond.

It didn't look as though it would be a good day for Circleville at the start of the game. Unioto batted around in the first inning, scoring seven runs.

But the Red and Black started banging away at that 7-0 deficit right away, scoring three runs in the bottom of the first, two in the second, tying the game with two in the third and then exploding for a big 7-run fourth inning.

Circleville batted around the order in the fourth. The big hit of that inning was a bases loaded triple by Biff Bumgarner. Mark Mace also hit a triple for the Tigers. Doubles were smashed by Phil Roll, Mark Scherer and Brent Mancini.

Mancini had three hits in five trips to the plate, drove in two runs and scored three runs. Rock Davis was two for two, scoring two runs.

Phil Roll was two for four, drove in two runs and scored one run. Singles were hit by Randy Thomas, Pat McNaughton and Perry Hoskins.

Thomas was the winning pitcher. He started for Circleville, walked four, fanned three and was touched for eight hits. He was relieved by Mancini who walked one, struck out one and gave up two hits.

Unioto used three pitchers. Throckmorton started, walked one, fanned three and gave up six hits. He was relieved by Russell who walked one, fanned two and was touched for seven hits. Johnson finished the game, fanned two and shut Circleville out in the final two innings.

Circleville now has a 7-9 overall record and stands at 5-6 in the league in sixth place.

Unioto is 18-2 overall and 7-2 in the league, a game ahead of second place Hillsboro with a 7-3 record. Rounding out the league, Miami Trace is third with a 5-3 record, Greenfield fourth with a 6-5 mark, Madison Plains fifth at 4-4, Wilmington seventh at 3-8 and Washington C. H. in last place with a 2-8 record.

Circleville will host Chillicothe Monday and Hillsboro Wednesday and travel to Miami Trace Thursday of next week.

Ruthven, Phils Top Pirates

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Gimme an R, gimme a U, gimme a T, gimme an H, gimme a V, gimme an E, gimme an N...put them all together they spell Dick Ruthven, just a year or so removed from Fresno State University, who's starting to put it all together.

"He came out of college last year with that college kind of an attitude. He did a lot of things that he wasn't informed about," Manager Danny Ozark said after the Philadelphia Phillies' 23-year-old right-hander, a National League sophomore, beat the hard-hitting Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 Friday night with ninth-inning help from Mac Scarce. Only one run was off Ruthven.

Elsewhere, the Montreal Expos edged the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4, the

Los Angeles Dodgers downed the San Diego Padres 7-5, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Houston Astros 2-1, the San Francisco Giants shaded the Atlanta Braves 5-4 in 13 innings and the New York Mets thumped the Chicago Cubs 7-2.

Ruthven also came out of college with a blazing fast ball and some distorted views on pitching to major league hitters.

"I don't think anybody throws any harder in the National League," said Ozark. "His velocity is unnatural."

Ruthven, who is 15 credits shy of a biology degree from Fresno State, dissected the Pirates for eight innings, yielding just two singles, striking out nine and retiring 18 consecutive batters.

That string ended via a walk and single to start the ninth.

"I keep a clear mind now where last year in certain situations I'd see red," said Ruthven, who compiled a 6-9 record and 4.22 earned run average. "Things would snowball. I was a mental midget. People around here thought I was insane. I totally embarrassed myself."

Expos 5, Cardinals 4

It was in the best interests of the Expos that Steve Rogers, their ace pitcher, stay in against the Cards. After all, Montreal had dropped three games in a row and nine of 10.

Rogers was pounded for four runs and five hits in the fourth inning but the Expos, trailing 4-3, scored two unearned runs in the fifth on Willie Davis' RBI single and a bases-loaded walk to Ron Fairly.

Dodgers 7, Padres 5

Steve Yeager, who homered earlier, doubled in the tiebreaking run in the eighth inning after Ron Cey's single and a sacrifice. Yeager eventually scored on a pinch single by Tom Paciorek. Cey and pinch hitter Ken McMullen also homered while Derrel Thomas connected for the Padres.

Reds 2, Astros 1

Dan Driessen's first home run of the season, a two-run shot in the fourth inning off Larry Dierker, carried Cincinnati and Jack Billingham to victory.

"It was a fast ball, just above the knees," said Driessen. "I've been trying to hit a homer all year, but the rain and the layoffs have just killed my rhythm. But Ted Kluszewski (batting coach) told me to wait back and the ball would pop up for me, and it did."

Giants 5, Braves 4

Garry Maddox singled home Bobby Bonds in the 13th inning after Bonds led off with a single off Buzz Capra and went to second as Tito Fuentes grounded out. The Giants came from behind twice. They tied the score 3-3 in the fifth on Dave Kingman's double, an infield out and Bonds' sacrifice fly. Chris Speier hit a home run in the seventh, making it 4-4. Darrell Evans hit a three-run homer for Atlanta and Hank Aaron doubled home the Braves' other run.

Mets 7, Cubs 2

Jerry Grote drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single and Dave Schneck hit a two-run homer, leading the Mets and unbeaten Jerry Koosman to victory. Grote's two-run single, one of his three hits, came as the Mets scored three times in the second inning against Burt Hooton. Schneck homered in the seventh off Ray Burris.

Baltimore Nips Indians In 3-1 Tilt

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Baltimore left-hander Dave McNally loves to win close ballgames but he loves to win lopsided ones even more. "It's fun winning these kinds of close games but only when they're over," said McNally after beating the Cleveland Indians 3-1 in 10 innings Friday night.

"I'd much rather win 10-1."

McNally allowed only six hits over nine innings and watched from the bench as reliever Bob Reynolds retired the Indians in the 10th. Losing pitcher Steve Kline gave up just four hits through nine innings but was chased in the 10th when Boog Powell singled, pinch-runner Enos Cabell was sacrificed to second and Earl Williams delivered a tie-breaking single.

Kline departed and the Birds picked up an insurance run on a sacrifice fly by Don Baylor off reliever Tom Hilgendorf.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees downed the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2; the Detroit Tigers edged the Boston Red Sox 6-5; the Oakland Athletics defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-2; the California Angels shaded the Kansas City Royals 2-1; and the Chicago White Sox outlasted the Texas Rangers 8-7 in 14 innings.

McNally raised his record to 3-2 while Kline lowered his to 3-4.

Baltimore scored in the third on a home run by Mark Belanger and Cleveland tied it in the seventh on a homer by Frank Duffy.

Cleveland has lost just three of its last 13 outings.

Yankees 7, Brewers 2

Dick Tidrow checked Milwaukee on seven hits to even his record at 3-3. Thurman Munson and Chris Chambliss contributed run-scoring doubles for the Yanks who held onto first place in the East. Don Money and Darrell Porter homered for the Brewers who have dropped five straight.

Braves Improve Record

Logan Elm baseball team pushed its record to 13 wins and three losses Friday by defeating Zane Trace 8-2 at the LEHS diamond.

The Braves used three pitchers, starting Tim Justus, who was credited with the win, relieving him with Scott Pontius after three innings and using Mark Justus in the last inning.

They walked nine, fanned nine and allowed three hits.

Zane Trace scored a run in the fifth and a run in the seventh. The Braves scored in each of the first five innings.

Jeff Wright was the losing pitcher. He was relieved in the sixth by Timmons. They struck out three and walked 12 and were touched for 12 hits.

The Zane Trace hits were all singles by Terry French, Rick French and Wright.

For Logan Elm, Jeff Reichelderfer singled and doubled, Steve Rawlins singled and doubled, Greg Justus and Rob Black both hit doubles and Scott Pontius, Mark Justus, Ron Stevens and Don King all singled.

Tuesday the Braves host Southeastern. Wednesday they meet Columbus Hartley, a 3-2 winner over Madison Plains yesterday, in the sectional finals at Newark. Game time is 5 p.m.

Cincinnati Reds End Long Drought With 2-1 Victory

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Even Dan Driessen was surprised at his first home run in 51 games and the Cincinnati Reds 21-inning drought was ended.

The blast over the left field wall gave the Reds a 2-1 victory over the Houston Astros, the team to beat, according to Reds Manager George "Sparky" Anderson, in the National League West.

Almost delirious, Tony Perez, scoring ahead of Driessen in the fourth inning, stopped at third to say hello to third base coach Alex Grammas and then jumped up and down four times on home plate.

"It's been so long I wanted to make sure I got in," laughed the Reds first baseman. Perez was on first base after forcing John Bench at second.

Cincinnati had gone 21 innings without a run.

Former Reds second baseman Tommy Helms knocked in the lone

Houston run on a triple to right-center that got through George Foster and rolled to the wall.

Catcher John Edwards scored on the play, but Helms, arriving at third, stopped to look back then headed for the plate. He was thrown out by Dave Concepcion's relay peg trying to stretch the hit into an inside the park home run.

"I didn't have very good stuff," said winner Jack Billingham, "but I had good control."

Billingham, 5-1, in his second straight complete game and fourth straight victory, owns five of Cincinnati's 13 victories of the season.

Loser Larry Dierker, 2-2, was lifted with the bases loaded in the seventh inning for Ken Forsch and Cincinnati did not score.

"The arm still bothers me," said Dierker, whose ERA was 2:08 going into the game, "but it's pain that I can control."

"The pitch to Driessen was a good pitch, but I got too much of the plate." Driessen, who spent all day Thursday with hitting coach Ted Kluszewski, did not get out in the contest, walking once and blasting three hits, including the game-winning homer.

"I try not to think of home runs," said Driessen after Kluszewski convinced him he should step toward the pitcher instead of to the left when swinging.

"Before that I was not comfortable at the plate. I was going up hoping for walks."

He said he didn't think the homer was out of the park "but when I saw the outfielder looking up I said 'oops.'"

Roger Nelson, 2-2, faces Tom Griffin, 4-1, today in a 5:30 p.m. EDT game. The Astros and Reds have a double header Sunday.

CHS Golfers Qualify For District

The Circleville High School golf team qualified for the Central District tournament by shooting a 345 at Marysville Country Club Friday.

The Tigers would have been one of the two sectional winners had they been able to use Jim England's score. He was disqualified for hitting a ball that was out of bounds. The out of bounds was marked with white stakes which England apparently did not see. The other boys in his foursome were Dave Dean of Logan Elm, Steve Cook of Teays Valley and Robert Noble of Hebron.

Circleville was led by Jeff Spires who carded a 41-39—80. Terry Spellacy shot a 38-45—83, Jeff Bohenko a 41-43—84 and Mark McFadden a 44-54—98.

Sectional winners were Bishop Watterson with a 309 total and Grand-View with 340. Other teams going to the district are River Valley, 343; Bexley, 347; Marysville, 349.

Teays Valley shot a 387 and Logan Elm 389.

Mike Brinkman of Watterson was the tournament medalist with 37-37—74. Spires was fifth, Spellacy 11th and Bohenko 12. Spires had nine pars and one bird in his round, Spellacy nine pars and Bohenko eight pars.

Tigers Upset
SCO Leading
Unioto, 13-9

Circleville's 13-hit attack Friday was too much for South Central Ohio League leader Unioto as the Tigers upset the loop's newest member, 13-9, on the local diamond.

It didn't look as though it would be a good day for Circleville at the start of the game. Unioto batted around in the first inning, scoring seven runs.

But the Red and Black started banging away at that 7-0 deficit right away, scoring three runs in the bottom of the first, two in the second, tying the game with two in the third and then exploding for a big 7-run fourth inning.

Circleville batted around the order in the fourth. The big hit of that inning was a bases loaded triple by Biff Bumgarner. Mark Mace also hit a triple for the Tigers. Doubles were smashed by Phil Roll, Mark Scherer and Brent Mancini.

Mancini had three hits in five trips to the plate, drove in two runs and scored three runs. Rock Davis was two for two, scoring two runs.

Phil Roll was two for four, drove in two runs and scored one run. Singles were hit by Randy Thomas, Pat McNaughton and Perry Hoskins.

Thomas was the winning pitcher. He started for Circleville, walked four, fanned three and was touched for eight hits. He was relieved by Mancini who walked one, struck out one and gave up two hits.

Unioto used three pitchers. Throckmorton started, walked one, fanned three and gave up six hits. He was relieved by Russell who walked one, fanned two and was touched for seven hits. Johnson finished the game, fanned two and shut Circleville out in the final two innings.

Circleville now has a 7-9 overall record and stands at 5-6 in the league in sixth place.

Unioto is 18-2 overall and 7-2 in the league, a game ahead of second place Hillsboro with a 7-3 record. Rounding out the league, Miami Trace is third with a 5-3 record, Greenfield fourth with a 6-5 mark, Madison Plains fifth at 4-4, Wilmington seventh at 3-8 and Washington C. H. in last place with a 2-8 record.

Circleville will host Chillicothe Monday and Hillsboro Wednesday and travel to Miami Trace Thursday of next week.

Ruthven, Phils Top Pirates

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Gimme an R, gimme a U, gimme a T, gimme an H, gimme a V, gimme an E, gimme an N...put them all together they spell Dick Ruthven, just a year or so removed from Fresno State University, who's starting to put it all together.

"He came out of college last year with that college kind of an attitude. He did a lot of things that he wasn't informed about," Manager Danny Ozark said after the Philadelphia Phillies' 23-year-old right-hander, a National League sophomore, beat the hard-hitting Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 Friday night with ninth-inning help from Mac Scarce. Only one run was off Ruthven.

Elsewhere, the Montreal Expos edged the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4, the

Los Angeles Dodgers downed the San Diego Padres 7-5, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Houston Astros 2-1, the San Francisco Giants shaded the Atlanta Braves 5-4 in 13 innings and the New York Mets thumped the Chicago Cubs 7-2.

Ruthven also came out of college with a blazing fast ball and some distorted views on pitching to major league hitters.

"I don't think anybody throws any harder in the National League," said Ozark. "His velocity is unnatural."

Ruthven, who is 15 credits shy of a biology degree from Fresno State, dissected the Pirates for eight innings, yielding just two singles, striking out nine and retiring 18 consecutive batters.

That string ended via a walk and single to start the ninth.

"I keep a clear mind now where last year in certain situations I'd see red," said Ruthven, who compiled a 6-9 record and 4.22 earned run average. "Things would snowball. I was a mental midget. People around here thought I was insane. I totally embarrassed myself."

Expos 5, Cardinals 4

It was in the best interests of the Expos that Steve Rogers, their ace pitcher, stay in against the Cards. After all, Montreal had dropped three games in a row and nine of 10.

Rogers was pounded for four runs and five hits in the fourth inning but the Expos, trailing 4-3, scored two unearned runs in the fifth on Willie Davis' RBI single and a bases-loaded walk to Ron Fairly.

Dodgers 7, Padres 5

Steve Yeager, who homered earlier, doubled in the tiebreaking run in the eighth inning after Ron Cey's single and a sacrifice. Yeager eventually scored on a pinch single by Tom Paciorek. Cey and pinch hitter Ken McMullen also homered while Derrel Thomas connected for the Padres.

Reds 2, Astros 1

Dan Driessen's first home run of the season, a two-run shot in the fourth inning off Larry Dierker, carried Cincinnati and Jack Billingham to victory.

"It was a fast ball, just above the knees," said Driessen. "I've been trying to hit a homer all year, but the rain and the layoffs have just killed my rhythm. But Ted Kluszewski (batting coach) told me to wait back and the ball would pop up for me, and it did."

Giants 5, Braves 4

Garry Maddox singled home Bobby Bonds in the 13th inning after Bonds led off with a single off Buzz Capra and went to second as Tito Fuentes grounded out. The Giants came from behind twice. They tied the score 3-3 in the fifth on Dave Kingman's double, an infield out and Bonds' sacrifice fly. Chris Speier hit a home run in the seventh, making it 4-4. Darrell Evans hit a three-run homer for Atlanta and Hank Aaron doubled home the Braves' other run.

Mets 7, Cubs 2

Jerry Grote drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single and Dave Schneck hit a two-run homer, leading the Mets and unbeaten Jerry Koosman to victory. Grote's two-run single, one of his three hits, came as the Mets scored three times in the second inning against Burt Hooton. Schneck homered in the seventh off Ray Burris.

Baltimore Nips
Indians In 3-1 Tilt

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Baltimore left-hander Dave McNally loves to win close ballgames but he loves to win lopsided ones even more.

"It's fun winning these kinds of close games but only when they're over," said McNally after beating the Cleveland Indians 3-1 in 10 innings Friday night.

"I'd much rather win 10-1."

McNally allowed only six hits over nine innings and watched from the bench as reliever Bob Reynolds retired the Indians in the 10th. Losing pitcher Steve Kline gave up just four hits through nine innings but was chased in the 10th when Boog Powell singled, pinch-runner Enos Cabell was sacrificed to second and Earl Williams delivered a tie-breaking single.

Kline departed and the Birds picked up an insurance run on a sacrifice fly by Don Baylor off reliever Tom Hilgendorf.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees downed the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2; the Detroit Tigers edged the Boston Red Sox 6-5; the Oakland Athletics defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-2; the California Angels shaded the Kansas City Royals 2-1; and the Chicago White Sox outlasted the Texas Rangers 8-7 in 14 innings.

McNally raised his record to 3-2 while Kline lowered his to 3-4.

Baltimore scored in the third on a home run by Mark Belanger and Cleveland tied it in the seventh on a homer by Frank Duffy.

Cleveland has lost just three of its last 13 outings.

Yankees 7, Brewers 2

Dick Tidrow checked Milwaukee on seven hits to even his record at 3-3. Thurman Munson and Chris Chambliss contributed run-scoring doubles for the Yanks who held onto first place in the East. Don Money and Darrell Porter homered for the Brewers who have dropped five straight.

Tigers 6, Red Sox 5

Pinch-hitter Ben Oglivie stung his former Boston mates by doubling home the winning run with one out in the ninth for Detroit. Al Kaline belted a three-run homer and Norm Cash hit a solo shot for the Tigers. Rico Petrocelli tied it in the Red Sox ninth with a two-out, three-run homer off Detroit ace reliever John Hiller, but Hiller got the victory anyway, his fifth in as many decisions.

A's 4, Twins 2

Catfish Hunter raised his record to 6-2 with relief help from Darold Knowles and Rollie Fingers. Deron Johnson knocked in two runs with a homer and a single for Oakland, and Bill North drove in the other two with a double and a bases-loaded walk.

Angels 2, Royals 1

Nolan Ryan fired a four-hitter and struck out 10 batters to up his record to 4-3. Mickey Rivers doubled home the first California run and scored the second on an error by Kansas City second baseman Cookie Rojas. Amos Otis homered for the Royals.

White Sox 8, Rangers 7, 14 innings

Jorge Orta, who entered the game as a pinch-runner in the 11th singled in Dick Allen with the winning run. Allen contributed a two-run homer and Bill Melton had a two-run double for Chicago. Alex Johnson had three hits for Texas which has lost six straight.

Armstrong
Houston Golf
Tilt Leader

HOUSTON (AP) — With heavy rains washing out the scheduled second round of the Houston Open Golf Tournament, rookie Wally Armstrong had an extra 24 hours to nervously consider his first-ever lead.

But there was one bright spot in the heavy clouds for Armstrong.

At least he has a bed to sleep in.

He didn't when he first got to Houston.

He and his wife, Debbie, came to town lacking hotel reservations, found Houston motels were booked solid and spent one night sleeping in their car.

Fellow pro Kermit Zarley, who lives in Houston, heard of their plight and offered them the guest room in his home. Armstrong gratefully accepted and shot a five-under-par 67 in Thursday's opening round, good enough for a tie for the top spot with tour sophomore Tom Kite.

Friday's scheduled second round was wiped out by heavy rains.

Tournament officials rescheduled the 72-hole event to include a single round today and a double round of 36 holes on Sunday.

The forecast called for continued cloudiness with a 20 per cent chance of thundershowers today.

Toledo Mud Hens

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Alan Bannister hit a three-run homer in the second inning to help the Toledo Mud Hens to an 8-4 win over the Tidewater Tides Friday night in International League baseball action.

In all, Toledo scored six runs in the second.

Rusty Klobas assisted the Mud Hen victory with two singles for two runs batted in.

Indy 500
Trials
On Agenda

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Engines were babied and smoothed out and the nerves began to show Friday as qualifications for the Indianapolis 500-mile race loomed on today's agenda.

But the big guns continued to pour out a barrage of speed and there were few surprises on the fifth day of practice for the May 26 race.

Forty-three cars—apparently a track record for a single day—made it into action on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The quick lap of the day was turned in by Bobby Unser, the 1968 Indy champ and a man who hasn't started any of the last eight Indy races farther back than the third row in the 33-car field.

The older of the two Albuquerque, N.M., racing brothers hit 192.513 miles an hour.

Pole favorite A.J. Foyt, who did a psyche job on the rest of the entries Thursday with a 196.249 m.p.h. clocking, turned down the horsepower and hit 191.205 Friday.

Johnny Rutherford, who won last year's pole position, was the only other driver over 190 Friday, hitting 191.6.

Foyt appeared to be in the best possible position to win the upwards of $10,000 prize money for the fastest qualifier on the first day of time trials.

He drew the No. 2 starting position for today's trials and saw that become the top spot when nobody pulled the No. 1 slip. Unser drew the No. 12 spot, while Rutherford was all the way down at No. 30.

Only 15 minutes from the end of the last prequalifying practice day, veteran Lloyd Ruby lost control of his Eagle in turn No. 2, skidded about 400 feet and crashed into a retaining wall. Ruby was unhurt.

Cincinnati Reds
End Long Drought
With 2-1 Victory

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Even Dan Driessen was surprised at his first home run in 51 games and the Cincinnati Reds 21-inning drought was ended.

The blast over the left field wall gave the Reds a 2-1 victory over the Houston Astros, the team to beat, according to Reds Manager George "Sparky" Anderson, in the National League West.

Almost delirious, Tony Perez, scoring ahead of Driessen in the fourth inning, stopped at third to say hello to third base coach Alex Grammas and then jumped up and down four times on home plate.

"It's been so long I wanted to make sure I got in," laughed the Reds first baseman. Perez was on first base after forcing John Bench at second.

Cincinnati had gone 21 innings without a run.

Former Reds second baseman Tommy Helms knocked in the lone

Houston run on a triple to right-center that got through George Foster and rolled to the wall.

Catcher John Edwards scored on the play, but Helms, arriving at third, stopped to look back then headed for the plate. He was thrown out by Dave Concepcion's relay peg trying to stretch the hit into an inside the park home run.

"I didn't have very good stuff," said winner Jack Billingham, "but I had good control."

Billingham, 5-1, in his second straight complete game and fourth straight victory, owns five of Cincinnati's 13 victories of the season.

Loser Larry Dierker, 2-2, was lifted with the bases loaded in the seventh inning for Ken Forsch and Cincinnati did not score.

"The arm still bothers me," said Dierker, whose ERA was 2:08 going into the game, "but it's pain that I can control."

"The pitch to Driessen was a good pitch, but I got too much of the plate," Driessen, who spent all day Thursday with hitting coach Ted Kluszewski, did not get out in the contest, walking once and blasting three hits, including the game-winning homer.

"I try not to think of home runs," said Driessen after Kluszewski convinced him he should step toward the pitcher instead of to the left when swinging.

"Before that I was not comfortable at the plate. I was going up hoping for walks."

He said he didn't think the homer was out of the park "but when I saw the outfielder looking up I said 'oops.'"

Roger Nelson, 2-2, faces Tom Griffin, 4-1, today in a 5:30 p.m. EDT game. The Astros and Reds have a double header Sunday.

Braves
Improve Record

Logan Elm baseball team pushed its record to 13 wins and three losses Friday by defeating Zane Trace 8-2 at the LEHS diamond.

The Braves used three pitchers, starting Tim Justus, who was credited with the win, relieving him with Scott Pontius after three innings and using Mark Justus in the last inning.

They walked nine, fanned nine and allowed three hits.

Zane Trace scored a run in the fifth and a run in the seventh. The Braves scored in each of the first five innings.

Jeff Wright was the losing pitcher. He was relieved in the sixth by Timmons. They struck out three and walked 12 and were touched for 12 hits.

The Zane Trace hits were all singles by Terry French, Rick French and Wright.

For Logan Elm, Jeff Reichelderfer singled and doubled, Steve Rawlins singled and doubled, Greg Justus and Rob Black both hit doubles and Scott Pontius, Mark Justus, Ron Stevens and Don King all singled.

Tuesday the Braves host Southeastern. Wednesday they meet Columbus Hartley, a 3-2 winner over Madison Plains yesterday, in the sectional finals at Newark. Game time is 5 p.m.

I Hear America Singing--Badly

NEW YORK (AP) — When it comes to performing musically, most Americans can't do it.

Based on a random sampling of the U.S. population at ages 9, 13, 17 and 26 to 35, regardless of musical background, the National Assessment of Educational Progress found:

Fewer than 15 per cent of any group could read music — even the simplest line of music.

Seventy per cent of the adults sang "America" with taped accompaniment. Fewer could sing it without music. Fewer of the children could sing it.

Less than half of the participants could sing one part of a familiar round. Only one in 10 could repeat a simple melodic phrase.

The central part of the United States produced slightly higher percentages than the rest of the country. Individuals in rural communities showed only a slight disadvantage when compared with the nation.

The NAEP is funded by the U.S. Office of Education. It provides information on how successfully young Americans have mastered subjects taught in school and what approaches in curriculum reform are likely to provide the public with the best value for its education tax dollar.

Greek and Roman doctors often persuaded their patients to drink bitter prescriptions by smearing the rims of cups with honey, a practice that persists today in sugar-coated pills.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FORSUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Don't block opposition that could eventually be converted into support. Work diplomatically to bring it around. Some barriers aren't as impregnable as they seem.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Avoid hasty decisions. Look more closely into all situations. There may be values not seen at a cursory glance.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your morale should get a boost now. Some new light is shed on old problems and you find more persons responding to your efforts. A brighter outlook indicated.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Personal relationships especially favored; also, your hopes and dreams. In fact, some of them are closer to realization than you think.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Control a tendency to be introspective and moody during the morning hours. It could only take some of the bloom off happy late-day surprises.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A stimulating day! Stellar aspects give new impetus to all worthwhile undertakings. Especially favored: family interests, community projects, travel.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Quick decisions may now be required due to sudden changed situations. Be ready to think and act — but without anxiety.

CHS Concert Superb, Band Ready For Indy

"Music is love, love is music, if you know what I mean; people who believe in music are the happiest people I've ever seen; clap your hands, stomp your feet and shake your tamborine; lift your voices to the sky, God loves you when you sing; I believe in music, I believe in love."

Those words, made famous by Gallery and Mac Davis, describe the

Wiring Short Causes Fire

A call at 9:20 a.m. this morning sent the Circleville Fire Department to the Darnell Manufacturing Company, 400 N. Court St. where an apparent electrical short had caused a fire in rolls of vinyl in the small plant.

Firemen estimated damages to the plant and contents at nearly $900. The little-used plant is owned by Richard Koch.

The fire department dispatched at 8:42 p.m. Friday to an auto fire on N. Court St. A jaguar owned by Ed Wells, 484 E. Main St. had been on fire in the engine compartment along the exhaust manifold.

Cause examination of the vehicle revealed no apparent cause of the fire which was out on arrival of the fire department. Firemen estimated no loss on the vehicle.

The auto had caught fire at the Sohio Station on N. Court St. and was reported by Stephen Fry.

Dolphin Law Under Fire

MIAMI (AP) — State officials say a proposed change in the federal law will allow commercial fishermen who buy a $5 permit to slaughter dolphins along Florida's coast.

"If this change is allowed it will wreak havoc with our efforts to protect porpoises," says Maj. Joe Brown, chief enforcement officer for the Florida Marine Patrol.

Adopted in 1972, the Marine Mammal Protection Act gave fishermen two years to switch to gear that would let trapped dolphins escape. A federal spokesman said Friday that with two years up in October, a change is needed to keep fishermen from being held liable for the occasional dolphin killed even with the new nets.

The proposed change would let a fishermen kill a porpoise that endangered his gear, catch or life after he first tried to frighten the animal away.

But Cliff Willis, fisheries director for the Florida Department of Natural Resources, maintained it would encourage fishermen to kill dolphins, which have little commercial value themselves but eat some commercially valuable fish.

Big Earthquake Strikes China

HONG KONG (AP) — A major earthquake jolted an area of southwestern China early today, the Royal Observatory reported.

The Observatory said the quake struck 192 miles southwest of the city of Chungking, about 400 miles north of the border with North Vietnam.

A spokesman said the quake measured seven on the Richter scale, and was capable of causing widespread damage. The 1906 San Francisco earthquake registered 8.6 on the Richter scale.

Chinese news broadcasts made no immediate mention of the quake.

500 Balloons To Check Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 500 weather balloons are being sent aloft across much of the nation this weekend to help the space agency check the effectiveness of satellites.

The balloons are being released at three-hour intervals from 8 a.m. EDT today to 8 a.m. EDT Sunday from points in virtually every state east of the Rocky Mountains.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Friday the purpose is to provide "ground truth" data and comparing it with information provided by four weather satellites. The data will be analyzed at NASA's Marshall Center in Huntsville, Ala.

Circleville High School Choir and Band Concert Friday. The students worked to make this concert the best yet.

The evening started with the smorgasbord dinner, sponsored by the Band Boosters. Through this effort the band went over the top in the drive for expenses needed for the May 25th trip to Indianapolis.

John Dowler opened each identical concert, changing the words of the song "Comedy Tonight", from a "Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum" to a "Concert Tonight" focusing on the theme "Come to the Concert".

The Concert Choir took stage center doing a splendid array of songs. The best the Choir has done in recent years.

The Choir did numbers such as Natalie Smith's spiritual rock, "Amen, So Be It!" and the "Wedding Song", by Cassey, and Numbers 17 to 19 of Brahms Fold Songs.

It was good to see a change of pace in the choir by using the ensemble groups. A quartet, consisting of Allen Dray, John Dowler, Brian Bass and Brett Patrick, did an excellent arrangement of Burt Bacharach's "Close To You".

A girls' ensemble group, participating in other activities throughout the year, was not used during the concert. Continuing, the Choir did Kent A. Newbury's "O Sing Unto The Lord, Alleluia", the Academy Award winning song from "The Poseidon Adventure", "The Morning After" and Bach's "Bourree For Bach" from the Second English Suite.

Ending the Vocal part of the program, the choir did a Richard Carpenter tune entitled, "Top of the World".

Mrs. Candice Rigo and the choir should be commended. Outlook for the future of vocal music in Circleville schools looks brighter every day.

The elite of the Concert Band, better known as the Stage Band, did four new numbers, and only having them a week, did a very fine job.

The rocking "Protest March" and the Lawrence Welk style "I'm On My Way" showed the band has the ability to play more than one kind of music.

"Feelin' Stronger Every Day", a Chicago tune, was then performed by the band. Trumpets, trombones and saxophones shined in the familiar rock song.

The band ended with the tune "First Thing Monday Morning".

Tabbed, "the most exciting band in Tiger Country", the Circleville High School Concert Band under the direction of Gary Dean entered the auditorium, literally speaking. The band march in to "Across the Field" beginning an exciting array of music.

Mrs. Candice Rigo directed the band to a march "Senor Senor", arranged by Carlos Guerno. Members of the audience were seen tapping their feet. The number featured the major wind instruments.

A rendition of Stevie Wonder's Grammy Award Winning Song, "You Are the Sunshine of My Life" was performed next by the Circleville musicians. The band sounded just as good, if not better than the record.

Caesar Giovannini is a composer of original band music, and basically what is known as earthly rock. Giovannini's "Where It's At" was incomparable to that of any song, especially performed by the CHS Band.

The song involves every instrument available with major parts played by the woodwinds and percussion.

John Dowler, student director, led the band in a smooth arrangement of the Association's tune, "Cherish".

Planning to attend the University of Houston, Dowler is an all-around musician. This young man can sing, play a musical instrument and then direct a band. A talented young man, Dowler is a success in everything he does. Circleville will miss him next year.

Cindy Tucker, Sonya Brumfield and Elizabeth Schumm did a superb dance routine to Mason Williams "Classical Gas". With a band like Circleville's and dancers like those three, one would pay good money to see both.

Continuing the program, Gustav Holst's, "March From E-flat Suite" was performed.

Multi-media is used to keep the audience informed by the use of electronification. The Band played Robert Lowden's "Six Wives of Henry VIII" with a slide presentation of Rick Wakeman's Six Wives of Henry VIII.

An instrument similar to a mood synthesizer was used to add special effects to the performance.

The program was ended with a favorite of the band's, "Black Magic Woman" with the majorettes doing a dance routine.

The audience applauded with such overwhelming approval of the band's performance that an encore "Patton" was performed.

The 160-member Tiger Marching Band has earned its honors to be the only band representing Ohio in the Indianapolis 500 Parade.

Rusk Warns Of Dangers In Detente

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— "Detente is not a substitute for a balance of power," former Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned Friday.

Rusk, who headed the state department under President Kennedy, said that the word "detente" had taken on an aura of magic in President Nixon's talks, especially in association with the phrase, "an era of peace."

Rusk was one of three former state department officials to address the Cleveland Council on World Affairs.

Willis C. Armstrong, an undersecretary of state under President Nixon, spoke warmly of the new "reciprocal business arrangements" with the Soviet Union.

He said that the Soviets could have been "much more difficult in the Middle East situation" and attributed Soviet restraint to relaxed tension between the superpowers.

Armstrong's stand was attacked later in the day by Eugene V. Rostow, an undersecretary of state during the Johnson administration.

Rostow countered that the Soviets had "incited and encouraged" the Arabs to wage the war against the Israelis. Rostow called the Yom Kippur War the "most flagrant case of aggression since the Korean War."

Rusk said he had "marginal disagreements" with Rostow, but agreed with his attempt to "pierce this fog of euphoria about how far detente has gone."

PULITZER PRIZE—Edward Fisher holds knife at throat of hostage as a security guard takes aim at Fisher in a parking lot in Hollywood, Calif., in November of 1973. Britain Restudies NATO Commitment

LONDON (AP) — A review of military policy by Britain's Labor government could lead to radical new thinking about defense in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a high political source said today.

The source said one plan under study foresees replacement of big standing armies in Europe with national or territorial militias — similar to the American National Guard — backed up by highly mobile American and British strike forces.

British authorities have predicted that such a system would be needed if East-West troop reductions in Europe now under discussion in Vienna actually take place.

The troop reductions would reduce the size of the standing armies, which NATO considers essential to hold back invaders from the East while tactical nuclear weapons are made ready for use.

The Labor government believes Britain is shouldering too much of the European defense burden in comparison with other European allies.

The Labor party promised in the campaign before last February's elections to slash defense spending by "hundreds of millions of pounds" a year.

For fiscal 1974-1975 the national defense allocation is $8.6 billion.

But any major defense cuts remain to be determined in detail and discussed with fellow NATO members.

The source said Britain is the only European ally contributing warships to the defense of the North Atlantic, and also is making a substantial contribution to the defense of the Mediterranean.

And the source also said that Britain and West Germany are the only European allies contributing men and arms to the defense of NATO's central and northern commands.

"There simply will have to be reductions," the source said. "If we go on as we are now, by 1980 Britain will be poorer per capita than Italy and yet we are contributing more of our gross national product proportionately than the prosperous West Germans."

The government is scrutinizing all of its military commitments around the globe. But cancelling or reducing some of those commitments could not save much, and observers said Europe was a likely place for major economies.

"Music is love, love is music, if you know what I mean; people who believe in music are the happiest people I've ever seen; clap your hands, stomp your feet and shake your tamborine; lift your voices to the sky, God loves you when you sing; I believe in music, I believe in love."

Those words, made famous by Gallery and Mac Davis, describe the

Wiring Short Causes Fire

A call at 9:20 a.m. this morning sent the Circleville Fire Department to the Darnell Manufacturing Company, 400 N. Court St. where an apparent electrical short had caused a fire in rolls of vinyl in the small plant.

Firemen estimated damages to the plant and contents at nearly $900. The little-used plant is owned by Richard Koch.

The fire department dispatched at 8:42 p.m. Friday to an auto fire on N. Court St. A jaguar owned by Ed Wells, 484 E. Main St. had been on fire in the engine compartment along the exhaust manifold.

Close examination of the vehicle revealed no apparent cause of the fire which was out on arrival of the fire department. Firemen estimated no loss on the vehicle.

The auto had caught fire at the Sohio Station on N. Court St. and was reported by Stephen Fry.

Dolphin Law Under Fire

MIAMI (AP) — State officials say a proposed change in the federal law will allow commercial fishermen who buy a $5 permit to slaughter dolphins along Florida's coast.

"If this change is allowed it will wreak havoc with our efforts to protect porpoises," says Maj. Joe Brown, chief enforcement officer for the Florida Marine Patrol.

Adopted in 1972, the Marine Mammal Protection Act gave fishermen two years to switch to gear that would let trapped dolphins escape. A federal spokesman said Friday that with two years up in October, a change is needed to keep fishermen from being held liable for the occasional dolphin killed even with the new nets.

The proposed change would let a fishermen kill a porpoise that endangered his gear, catch or life after he first tried to frighten the animal away.

But Cliff Willis, fisheries director for the Florida Department of Natural Resources, maintained it would encourage fishermen to kill dolphins, which have little commercial value themselves but eat some commercially valuable fish.

Big Earthquake Strikes China

HONG KONG (AP) — A major earthquake jolted an area of southwestern China early today, the Royal Observatory reported.

The Observatory said the quake struck 192 miles southwest of the city of Chungking, about 400 miles north of the border with North Vietnam.

A spokesman said the quake measured seven on the Richter scale, and was capable of causing widespread damage. The 1906 San Francisco earthquake registered 8.6 on the Richter scale.

Chinese news broadcasts made no immediate mention of the quake.

500 Balloons To Check Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 500 weather balloons are being sent aloft across much of the nation this weekend to help the space agency check the effectiveness of satellites.

The balloons are being released at three-hour intervals from 8 a.m. EDT today to 8 a.m. EDT Sunday from points in virtually every state east of the Rocky Mountains.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Friday the purpose is to provide "ground truth" data and comparing it with information provided by four weather satellites. The data will be analyzed at NASA's Marshall Center in Huntsville, Ala.

Circleville High School Choir and Band Concert Friday. The students worked to make this concert the best yet.

The evening started with the smorgasbord dinner, sponsored by the Band Boosters. Through this effort the band went over the top in the drive for expenses needed for the May 25th trip to Indianapolis.

John Dowler opened each identical concert, changing the words of the song "Comedy Tonight", from a "Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum" to a "Concert Tonight" focusing on the theme "Come to the Concert".

The Concert Choir took stage center doing a splendid array of songs. The best the Choir has done in recent years.

The Choir did numbers such as Natalie Smith's spiritual rock, "Amen, So Be It!" and the "Wedding Song", by Cassey, and Numbers 17 to 19 of Brahms Fold Songs.

It was good to see a change of pace in the choir by using the ensemble groups. A quartet, consisting of Allen Dray, John Dowler, Brian Bass and Brett Patrick, did an excellent arrangement of Burt Bacharach's "Close To You".

A girls' ensemble group, participating in other activities throughout the year, was not used during the concert. Continuing, the Choir did Kent A. Newbury's "O Sing Unto The Lord, Alleluia", the Academy Award winning song from "The Poseidon Adventure", "The Morning After" and Bach's "Bourree For Bach" from the Second English Suite.

Ending the Vocal part of the program, the choir did a Richard Carpenter tune entitled, "Top of the World".

Mrs. Candice Rigo and the choir should be commended. Outlook for the future of vocal music in Circleville schools looks brighter every day.

The elite of the Concert Band, better known as the Stage Band, did four new numbers, and only having them a week, did a very fine job.

The rocking "Protest March" and the Lawrence Welk style "I'm On My Way" showed the band has the ability to play more than one kind of music.

"Feelin' Stronger Every Day", a Chicago tune, was then performed by the band. Trumpets, trombones and saxophones shined in the familiar rock song.

The band ended with the tune "First Thing Monday Morning".

Tabbed, "the most exciting band in Tiger Country", the Circleville High School Concert Band under the direction of Gary Dean entered the auditorium, literally speaking. The band march in to "Across the Field" beginning an exciting array of music. Mrs. Candice Rigo directed the band to a march "Senor Senor", arranged by Carlos Guerno. Members of the audience were seen tapping their feet. The number featured the major wind instruments.

A rendition of Stevie Wonder's Grammy Award Winning Song, "You Are the Sunshine of My Life" was performed next by the Circleville musicians. The band sounded just as good, if not better than the record.

Caesar Giovannini is a composer of original band music, and basically what is known as earthly rock. Giovannini's "Where It's At" was incomparable to that of any song, especially performed by the CHS Band.

The song involves every instrument available with major parts played by the woodwinds and percussion.

John Dowler, student director, led the band in a smooth arrangement of the Association's tune, "Cherish".

Planning to attend the University of Houston, Dowler is an all-around musician. This young man can sing, play a musical instrument and then direct a band. A talented young man, Dowler is a success in everything he does. Circleville will miss him next year.

Cindy Tucker, Sonya Brumfield and Elizabeth Schumm did a superb dance routine to Mason Williams "Classical Gas". With a band like Circleville's and dancers like those three, one would pay good money to see both.

Continuing the program, Gustav Holst's, "March From E-flat Suite" was performed.

Multi-media is used to keep the audience informed by the use of electronic. The Band played Robert Lowden's "Six Wives of Henry VIII" with a slide presentation of Rick Wakeman's Six Wives of Henry VIII.

An instrument similar to a mood synthesizer was used to add special effects to the performance.

The program was ended with a favorite of the band's, "Black Magic Woman" with the majorettes doing a dance routine.

The audience applauded with such overwhelming approval of the band's performance that an encore "Patton" was performed.

The 160-member Tiger Marching Band has earned its honors to be the only band representing Ohio in the Indianapolis 500 Parade.

Rusk Warns Of Dangers In Detente

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—"Detente is not a substitute for a balance of power," former Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned Friday.

Rusk, who headed the state department under President Kennedy, said that the word "detente" had taken on an aura of magic in President Nixon's talks, especially in association with the phrase, "an era of peace."

Rusk was one of three former state department officials to address the Cleveland Council on World Affairs.

Willis C. Armstrong, an undersecretary of state under President Nixon, spoke warmly of the new "reciprocal business arrangements" with the Soviet Union.

He said that the Soviets could have been "much more difficult in the Middle East situation" and attributed Soviet restraint to relaxed tension between the superpowers.

Armstrong's stand was attacked later in the day by Eugene V. Rostow, an undersecretary of state during the Johnson administration.

Rostow countered that the Soviets had "incited and encouraged" the Arabs to wage the war against the Israelis. Rostow called the Yom Kippur War the "most flagrant case of aggression since the Korean War."

Rusk said he had "marginal disagreements" with Rostow, but agreed with his attempt to "pierce this fog of euphoria about how far detente has gone."

PULITZER PRIZE—Edward Fisher holds knife at throat of hostage as a security guard takes aim at Fisher in a parking lot in Hollywood, Calif., in November of 1973. This was one in a series of pictures on the incident that won the Pulitzer prize for spot news photography for Anthony K. Roberts, a freelance photographer.

Britain Restudies NATO Commitment

LONDON (AP) — A review of military policy by Britain's Labor government could lead to radical new thinking about defense in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a high political source said today.

The source said one plan under study foresees replacement of big standing armies in Europe with national or territorial militias — similar to the American National Guard — backed up by highly mobile American and British strike forces.

British authorities have predicted that such a system would be needed if East-West troop reductions in Europe now under discussion in Vienna actually take place.

The troop reductions would reduce the size of the standing armies, which NATO considers essential to hold back invaders from the East while tactical nuclear weapons are made ready for use.

The Labor government believes Britain is shouldering too much of the European defense burden in comparison with other European allies.

The Labor party promised in the campaign before last February's elections to slash defense spending by "hundreds of millions of pounds" a year.

For fiscal 1974-1975 the national defense allocation is $8.6 billion.

But any major defense cuts remain to be determined in detail and discussed with fellow NATO members.

The source said Britain is the only European ally contributing warships to the defense of the North Atlantic, and also is making a substantial contribution to the defense of the Mediterranean.

And the source also said that Britain and West Germany are the only European allies contributing men and arms to the defense of NATO's central and northern commands.

"There simply will have to be reductions," the source said. "If we go on as we are now, by 1980 Britain will be poorer per capita than Italy and yet we are contributing more of our gross national product proportionately than the prosperous West Germans."

The government is scrutinizing all of its military commitments around the globe. But cancelling or reducing some of those commitments could not save much, and observers said Europe was a likely place for major economies.
